Should Be 1,000,000 to 1 U. S. Passenger Service One Week to Live Soldiers and Heroes

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1920.

In Wall Street the betting is 5 to 1 on Harding. The question is, What generous soul is putting up the one without the slightest chance of getting it back?

The issue in this election is the war, the League of Nations, which would take from the United States the independence that it won in 1776 and hand it back to a group of foreign nations controlled by England.

That the people of the United States will not vote to give up their independence is a 1,000,000 to 1, not 5 to 1 bet.

Thanks to Mr. Burleson, government ownership of passenger service has begun in a small way, it is true, but in the right place. Contracts have been let to a Chicago firm, and flying cars with wicker chairs, enclosed in glass and steel, will carry passengers as well as mail, and the United States will be the owner of the transportation.

As soon as the thing is a success "private ownership" will step in and kindly explain that the government is not able to do anything well. It is to be hoped that those soon to be in charge of the government will have the energy, once started, to keep on.

The most weak-kneed thing ever heard of was done by the Democratic administration handing back railroads to private owners after spending billions of the people's money rebuilding and re-equipping the roads and paying the highest profit to the private owners.

Mayor MacSwiney has gone without food for thirty-five days. His mental courage and interest in the fight that he is making may keep him alive ten days more. He probably cannot live longer that that.

He probably will die in the course of the coming week if England's attitude does not change. Meanwhile the Irish correspondent of the London Times, owned by the son of an Irish woman, says that if MacSwiney dies it will make it impossible for the Irish and English difficulty to be successfully arranged or compromised.

That, undoubtedly, is true. Every Irishman feels toward MacSwiney now as though he were his own son or brother. When he dies every Irishman will feel that he has been murdered.

The harm that will be done to England and to English representatives in Ireland should MacSwiney die, is clear to everybody. What good England hopes to achieve by allowing him to die is not clear. There must exist an undercurrent of hatred in England not understood in this country.

"News," so-called, from Russia, tells of serious rioting against the Bolshevik government at Petrograd and "six of the Bolshevik commissaries" drowned. This is a variation in news of that kind. Usually Lenin kills Trotzky, or Trotzky kills Lenin. Neither has done that for some months.

Another kind of news, representing facts more closely, says the Russians are getting together an army of four millions and three-quarters, and that General Wrangel, who was supposed to restore ancient conditions and force payment of Russian bonds, has again been kicked out of the place where he most recently was.

All of this does not affect the United States much as long as we keep our men out of Russia and our country out of the League of Nations.

But when you read about that Russian army of four and three-quarter millions, you understand how glad other countries would be if they could trap old Uncle Sam in the League of Nations and make it his business to take care of that Bolshevik crowd and finance that war.

Two more flying men in the government mail service are killed, burned to death. This fills with horror those that learned to read quite calmly about death in war.

Friends of the dead fliers have the satisfaction of knowing that they were soldiers and heroes in the truest sense men fighting to achieve progress for all time, not fighting against other men in quarrels to be renewed indefinitely.

Every tunnel built, almost every great building, means one to two hundred workmen's deaths. Perhaps occasional dramatic death in the flying service will cause the public to appreciate the heroes of industry killed every week in blast furnaces, tunnels, railroad construction, with no bands playing and no newspapers to praise them.

MORGAN OFFICE BLOWN UP; 15 DIE

New York, Sept. 16.—A terrific explosion occurred in the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., international bankers, at Wall and Broad streets, at noon today. At least 15 persons were killed. The interior of the banking house, the most magnificent in America, was wrecked. Trading in the New York Stock Exchange, almost across the street from Morgan & Co., was suspended.

At 12:10 o'clock the police declared they had positive information that an infernal machine of gigantic power had caused the explosion.

None of the members of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Company were killed.

All of down town New York, but especially the Wall street financial district, was rocked by the terrific concussion.

A great shower of debris and smoke arose from the Morgan offices. Pedestrians in the street, near the corner of Broad and Wall streets, were hurled from their feet. A number of them were seriously injured.

THOMPSON WINS IN CHICAGO

"Regular" Republicans, Led by Governor Lowden, Overwhelmingly Beaten in Primaries

Chicago, Sept. 16.—The result of yesterday's primaries in Illinois was still in doubt today so far as the major candidates are concerned, but Mayor Thompson has swept Chicago.

Nominations on the Republican ticket for Governor and Senator will not be known until more complete returns are available. The fight for the Democratic nomination for Senator is uncertain. Former Senator James Hamilton Lewis has won the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Returns from 2,255 precincts out of 5,237 give Len Small 127,238 votes to 126,828 for John G. Oglesby in the fight for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Congressman William R. McKinley took the lead in the race for the Republican nomination for Senator when returns from 2,168 precincts in the State gave him 119,682 votes to 117,059 for Frank L. Smith.

LATEST!

DEATH TOLL MAY REACH SIXTY

New York, Sept. 16.—The death toll in the Morgan explosion may reach sixty. The police have been unable to estimate the number of dead and injured. Junius Spencer Morgan, son of J. P. Morgan, had his hand cut by flying glass. By 12:20 the police said a bomb exploded on the Wall street side of the building. They said it had either been tossed from a motor car or had been thrown through a window from the street.

Girl Auto Victim Has Clew to Assailants

Mary Kerrigan, 18 years old, of No. 214 Highland avenue, Malden, regained consciousness today at the Lynn Hospital, where she was taken Sunday night after she and her companion, Frances Berrigan, also sixteen, of No. 73 Malden street, Malden, had jumped from an automobile in Lynn while riding with two young men.

Miss Kerrigan received a compound fracture of the skull. Today she spoke for the first time since being picked up unconscious.

The police have been furnished with an accurate description of the two men, and the search for them extended to Malden and Newburyport. One of them had shown Miss Kerrigan his name and address on an envelope, which she recalled today.

FIREMEN ASK REFERENDUM ON 2-PLATOON SYSTEM

The city election commissioners have received eighty-one petitions for a referendum in Boston at the State election on the question of establishing a two-platoon system in the fire department, according to Chairman M. W. Burlen of the commission.

He also reported that no changes in the standing of the candidates resulted from the recount of the Republican votes cast for ward committee candidates in Ward 16, for House candidates in Wards 18, 22 and 23, and for Senatorial candidates in Wards 16, 22 and 23 and 19, 21 and 24.

7 SHIFTED IN BIG POLICE SHAKEUP

East Dedham Street Station Men Transferred All Over City; Other Changes Due

Police Commissioner Edwin U. Curtis today transferred seven patrolmen from the East Dedham street station in the first big shake-up since the new police force was formed a year ago.

Mr. Curtis intimated that still other transfers might be expected in the near future.

"These transfers were made by me on my own initiative," said Commissioner Curtis. "They were not made at the request of any police captain or other immediate superior of the men involved."

He declined to say why the transfers were made, although admitting the suggestion of trouble of a serious nature. One explanation given by a high official of the department was that the men transferred wished to be on duty closer to their homes.

This theory seemed to lose weight when it was found that several of the men affected by the order would lose their chances of promotion as a result. All seven officers reported for duty this morning. The transfers were:

Everett P. Bostwick, to the Athens Street Station, South Boston; Frank F. Leonard, to the Charlestown Station; John L. Axtman, to the West Roxbury Station; Francis J. Ogden, to the Brighton Station; Manuel F. Davis, to the Dudley Street Station; Alfred J. Morrissey, to the East Boston Station; Charles Nicholls, to the Roxbury Crossing Station.

Mayor Condemns School Officials for Increase in Expenses of Boston

Mayor Peters announced today that Boston's tax rate for 1920 is $24.10 per $1,000, an increase of fifty cents over last year.

A gain of $41,834,341 in real estate and personal property, making Boston's total valuation $1,571,596,635, and a tax rate reduction of twenty-three cents in city departments under the control of the Mayor kept the tax rate down.

In making the announcement the Mayor criticised the school department, whose expenses increased nearly 10 per cent. over last year, for going over his head to the legislature for rate increases.

He pointed out that the only reduction in expenses, despite mounting totals were in those departments directly under his control, adding:

"It is obvious that were the departments under the control of the mayor operated on the same basis of expenditure as the schools the city tax rate would be in the vicinity of $25.

"This is a striking illustration of the impossibility of the chief executive of the city keeping down the total tax rate when certain departments over which he has no control are allowed by the Legislature to increase their expenditures."

UNITED STATES BARS SINGER BAKLANOFF

George Baklanoff, who once delighted musical Boston as baritone of the old Boston Opera Company, and shocked it by his amorous and stormy love affairs, has been barred from the United States as undesirable.

Acting on orders from Washington, American officials in Paris have just refused the temperamental Russian singer a passport to this country. Their action is final.

It was as a result of serious charges by Mlle Alvira Amasar, his latest flame, that the door was shut in Baklanoff's face.

Mlle Amasar, a beautiful Russian, many years the junior of the baritone, is also a former member of the Boston company. She has many friends here. She has charged that Baklanoff lured her from a home of wealth and ease in Russia, got her

2,000 French Women Would Wed Foch

Paris, Sept. 16.—Two thousand French women would like to marry Marshal Foch.

This is one of the results of a campaign instituted by the Parisian fashion magazine, Femina, which has published the answers from more than 5,000 women in response to the question: "What great man would you marry if you could?"

After Foch, Flaubert was the most popular and even Dante got one vote. Eighteen declared they would like to marry Gabriele d'Annunzio and four said they wouldn't mind a bit being the bride of Woodrow Wilson.

DEATH OF SINN FEIN PLOTTED

British Accused of Plan to Annihilate Republic; MacSwiney Weaker

BULLETIN

London, Sept. 16.—Terence MacSwiney, Sinn Fein lord mayor of Cork, was in great pain when he began the 35th day of his hunger strike in the Brixton jail infirmary. His condition was officially reported "unchanged" at 4 o'clock. MacSwiney still was conscious. He spent a restless night but dozed at intervals.

Friends who visited MacSwiney at noon said he had spent a very bad night. He was very weak and completely worn out.

London, Sept. 16.—That the British government in Ireland, acting in conjunction with certain members of the cabinet, has decided to smash the republican movement in Ireland in five weeks is the charge formally preferred by Sinn Fein leaders in a statement issued in Dublin and furnished to the American newspaper correspondents here.

The statement declares that the military leaders seek to present Westminster on October 19, when Par-

BURGLARS RAID 3 PLACES

Brookline Police, Working on Case for a Week, Unable to Get Any Clews

Three daring burglaries came to light in Brookline today. The home of President John R. McVey of the Old South Trust Company was one of the places entered and looted.

The value of articles taken from the McVey home at No. 18 Carey road cannot be estimated, as the family is at the Summer home in Hull.

The other places entered were the home of the Misses Rogers, No. 45 Windsor road and the drugstore of Thomas F. Burns, No. 127 Washington street, Brookline Village.

Although the burglaries extended over a period of a week, announcement was delayed by the police, who are without clews.

The entry to the McVey home was made Tuesday night and was interpreted by the police as the work of professionals.

Entering the house by a rear door they found the rooms in disorder and saw a figure in a mask. When they called a man the man disappeared.

Articles the interrupted burglars had intended to carry off were piled on the floor. Some things they already had taken away.

The families of Mr. and Mrs. McVey placed their valuable silver plate in a safety deposit vault.

The methods which Sinn Fein alleges have been adopted are:

2—The arrest and imprisonment of other members as well as that of hundreds of other local Republican leaders.

3—An intensified campaign of terrorism against the mass of people in which life will frequently be taken and property will not be spared.

It declares that hundreds of Republicans are busy bring rounded up in almost every county in Ireland. It charges that the British are employing tools to plant ammunition in the houses of men whose arrests are desired.

The plans for terrorizing the masses, it is alleged, include the stirring up of English soldiers to a campaign of hate by means of distributing to them a fake oath which, it is alleged, was taken from the

MacSWINEY BLOCKED PLANS.

Sinn Fein declares that the campaign of terrorism was begun the moment Parliament adjourned, but that the plans were disarranged because the hunger strike of Lord MacSwiney focussed the attention of the world on Ireland.

Nevertheless the militarists are determined to make full use of the remainder of the parliamentary recess. The Irish office, which is in possession of the document, makes a categorical denial. It declares that the government will persist in the suppression of the Republican army as a seditious body.

COX LIKENS RIVAL'S SLOGAN TO KAISER'S

Elko, Nev., Sept. 16.—Governor James M. Cox, on his way to California, spoke here today. Having spoken in Salt Lake, he is convinced that the Mormon church is solidly behind the League of Nations and that he will carry Utah. Senator Harding's slogan, "America first," Mr. Cox said was like the Kaiser's song "when the world rose up and struck him down." "If that is to be America's slogan, if America is to stand isolated from the world, she must arm to the teeth, she must always be prepared for war," Mr. Cox said.

British Terror Methods to Subdue Ireland

The ruthless methods which the Sinn Fein leaders charge the British military government in Ireland have sworn to put into effect to break the republican movement and to "cow the people" are as follows:

1. The assassination of certain members of Dail Eireann.

2. The arrest and imprisonment of other members, as well as that of hundreds of other local republican leaders.

3. An intensified campaign of terrorism against the mass of people, in which life will be frequently taken and property will not be spared.

HAUL BRITISH FLAG OFF WALL

Old Glory Replaces it After Steam Engineers Protest at Convention

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 16.—The International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers' Convention held here suspended business while a great British flag on the wall above the platform was hauled down and an American flag installed in its place.

The protest against having the British flag hung in the place of honor was lodged by P. J. Horan, a delegate from Kimburai, L. I. His action was seconded by other delegates and when the flag was not taken down immediately they marched from the room and remained away until it was.

The management of the hotel finally obtained a beautiful American flag and the Union Jack was taken down and the American colors raised in its place. The British flag was hung in a less conspicuous place and no objection was made.

The convention passed a resolution urging British trades unions to demand the withdrawal of troops from Ireland, indorsing Irish freedom, and urging the release of the Lord Mayor of Cork from Brixton prison.

ROME DRAFT DODGING CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT

Judge Morton heard final arguments on the petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed by Judge A. K. Cohen, counsel for Philip Rome, a wealthy Worcester young man tried as an alleged draft dodger, in the Federal district court, and took the case under advisement.

By the petition, Judge Cohen seeks to have Rome released from military jurisdiction. Rome is now under heavy bail.

U.S. BARS SINGER BAKLANOFF

Baritone Who Gave Boston Music and Gossip Is Classed as an Undesirable

This famous affair, which kept the gossips whispering between the acts during the local operatic season, was only the climax to a long series of romantic entanglements with women artists.

Lydia Lipkowska, the dainty and spirited Russian soprano, who was the darling of Boston music lovers for many seasons, was frankly in love with her fickle countryman for years.

This well recognized "affair" was ended when the soprano tempestuously threw Baklanoff over, following gossip concerning him and Ida Rubenstein, Russian dancer.

Baklanoff met a victim to the beauty of Mme. Rubenstein during a Paris engagement, according to chatty Parisian newspapers. The romance attracted more attention than any artist's love affair in decades, as the Russian was said to have supplanted Gabriele D'Annunzio, the Italian poet, in the dancer's affections.

Mlle. Amasar, who finally found a way to make the male "vampire" pay for his treatment of her sex, made her Boston debut at Mosetta in Puccini's "La Boheme." She was hailed here as "the best dressed woman in Europe."

Baklanoff's devotion to Mlle. Amasar was for a time the wonder of the art world in which he moved. It was confidently expected that the baritone, fast approaching middle age, had at last found a woman to whom he could be true. And then, in January of last year, following stormy scenes suspected only by intimates of the pair, Amasar started legal proceedings.

Damage suits, deportation actions and other forms of litigation were hurled at the head of her former idol. Unlike other flames of the Russian star, she refused to be cast aside without her revenge.

A TRILBY ROMANCE.

Their romance, as told by her in her various actions against the baritone, was distinctly of the "Trilby" variety. He had a wife and several children when he met her in Russia. She was nineteen, he in the late thirties. She was the daughter of a wealthy man, he an opera singer whose income was much depleted in meeting the demands of various castoffs of love.

She joined him in Petrograd, and they went to live in Kieff, where he was not known. But before she went, she was met and warned by Lydia Lipkowska, who had realized the Russian singer not wisely, but too well.

"She told me there had been many women before me, and would be many after me," testified Mlle Amasar. "She said that before her there had been a ballet girl, a French woman, and a Creole. No three men all over." Disregarding these warnings, the infatuated Amasar came to America with Baklanoff in 1918. Following her appearance with him in the Boston Opera Company she followed him about the country. They were with the Chicago Opera Company when the final break came.

In two districts the fusion nominees are women.

Pere Marquette, K. C. Bazaar on Tonight

The three days bazaar to be given by the Pere Marquette Council, K. of C., of South Boston opens tonight with a parade along East Broadway.

The opening night will be "Irish Night," with R. J. Dwyer in charge. Former Mayor James M. Curley will give an address on present conditions in Ireland.

Friday night will be Marquette Court Night and Saturday afternoon for the children. Saturday night will be athletic night, the feature of which will be a ten-mile cross-country run for cups donated by the council, Honorable James M. Curley, Joseph A. Maynard and Senator William J. Foley. The bazaar will be held in Pere Marquette Building, A street, and the proceeds will be used to give the Catholic men who served in the World War a "welcome home."

BAN ON RUSSIA MAKES FAMINE

Must Become Europe's Granary Again or Thousands Die, Say Hoover Workers

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND, Boston American Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, Sept. 16. — Until Russia again becomes a producer, until the barrier built up against her is taken down to enable the export of surplus products, until Russia again becomes the granary of Europe—Europe must continue to starve and thousands of Europeans die directly of starvation or indirectly due to undernourishment.

RELIEF WORKERS CONFER.

Walter L. Brown, head of the relief and the feeding of children with his head office in London, called a conference of the relief warehouse workers here Tuesday to discuss the situation. About twenty from Poland, Austria, Hungary, Germany, Bohemia and elsewhere attended. These included Brown, Major Mitchell, Major Philip H. Carroll and Captain Kingland.

"Our reports indicate that Europe is facing the worst Winter since the World War began," one of the members declared. He said that a large proportion of the Poles were facing absolute starvation, due to the Russian war, which caused the neglect of some crops and the spoliation of others. The American Red Cross organization in Poland has described the coming Winter as one that will be much worse than last.

FRED 900,000 IN DANZIG.

Danzig was so overwhelmed for a time, especially with Jews trying to reach America, that the city appealed to the American warehouses for food. For a time the American Relief Association and the Quakers were feeding one million and a quarter children. This was reduced to a half million. This situation has become so bad again that the number now being fed is 900,000.

Reports from Austria are no less black. The number of children being fed has increased, and will again be increased, if funds from America are not available. American generosity in the present time is keeping 300,000 Austrian children alive.

In Germany the Quakers have won a place in humanitarian history by feeding 650,000.

THIEVES IN AUTO TRUCK GET $26,500 IN WHISKEY

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Led by a man in police uniform, a band of five liquor thieves raided a warehouse here, bound and gagged a watchman with a bed pillow, and lugged away $26,500 worth of whiskey on a motor truck. The watchman was struck down by the butt of a pistol.

WILD PARIS NIGHT LIFE, LURING RICH TO DISASTER, IS EXPOSED

AMERICANS ARE PLUNGING IN MAD REVELS AT CAPITAL

This is the first installment of an authentic expose of wild Paris night life, the indulgence in which is assigned as contributing to the tragic death of Olive Thomas, the beautiful American moving picture actress who swallowed poison after a wine party in the Montmartre. The investigation was made by C. F. Bertelli, Paris correspondent of Universal Service.

By C. F. BERTELLI.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Sept. 16.—Paris, or rather that portion of it maintained for tourists, has gone back to its pre-war days and beyond.

The Montmartre restaurants by night are one wild revel of wild dancing and wilder exhibitions. Iced champagne that is almost priceless flows as if it costs nothing. The rich people of the world, and especially of America, are here, and they have thrown aside restraint.

The revel goes on in a sybaritic setting. The music is langorous and seductive. The combinations of colors from the carefully shaded lights and from the decorations by the world's ablest decorators are a subtle inspiration.

WOMEN DECOLLETE.

The lights gleam on the beautiful white shoulders and arms of the women garbed in daring decollete. Rich jewels gleam on bare throats. Subtle performers help lull the restraints of the serious world. All efficient build up an atmosphere in which indulgence, gayety and sensation are the only cares of the participants.

Then as the capstone to the revels of the dancers and diners, come the daring entertainments. Players imitate scouting slaves will bring in a huge silver tray on their shoulders. The music charms and the men at the lights direct every eye to the central scene.

Then, as if rising from sleep, a beautiful and nude, or nearly nude woman will burst from the silver tray of flowers on the tray and stretch in dreamy pose. Then as if roused by the music she will shake off her seeming lethargy and glide into dances of ever more alluring action.

It was into such an atmosphere that Olive Thomas plunged the Saturday night that preceded her swallowing the bichloride of mercury solution from which she died. The circumstances surrounding her end remain tragically mysterious despite the official verdict of accidental death. This has stirred a tremendous wave of sentiment for the closing down of the night life, and unquestionable that the sights seen are such that clean bred Americans at home cannot believe that they exist.

AMERICANS EVERYWHERE.

One June night in 1913, another newspaper man and I were taking a prominent American official on what is called "The Grand Duke's Tour"—a journey that every American seems to want to make the moment he or she reaches the shores of the Seine.

He marveled that France should be able to survive the war, to go on and continue in her full strength. It was in the Royal cabaret, I believe, to which we had the courage. He did, and carefully. Practically all were foreigners. Nearly all were Americans. The only Frenchmen in the place were the waiters and other employes.

The Americans crowded the dance floor. They occupied the red cushioned seats around the walls as they were crowded around champagne laden tables.

And the condition is the same there today. The gayety goes on with increased pace.

Many of the prominent persons of Paris insist that the city would be one of the most moral in the world if it were not that the Americans who come here insist on making it the world's show place for the animal instincts in man.

The theatre managers declare that their risque plays are put on to please the crowd from the outside. A list of the shows now running is perhaps as indicative as anything of the conditions which prevail. They should convince Americans of the risk they run in bringing young American girls to this city.

The Historic Varities Theatre is showing "The School for Chickens." "But men will not know it," is the offering at the Capucines, the most fashionable of the boulevard theatres. "My Wife's Friend," is produced at vaudeville.

DARING LIST OF PLAYS.

Some of the other plays and the theatres at which they are produced are: "My Love," at the Renaissance; "Let Tell You the Winked at Me," at the Palais Royal; "Satyr's Lover," at Theatre Michel; "Fue-thinette, a Lightly Clad Operetta," at the Athlet Theatre; "The Chean Little Bite," at the Grand Guignol; "The Hot Stuff Queen," at the Abri; "Tricks of a Pig," at the De Janez; "Science of the Wild Virgin," at the Harlequin; "Wild Love," at the Folies Bergere; "Have to Leave," at La Cigale; "White Slave Traffic," at Bouffes Du Nord. Also "A Parisian Wedding," at Matacian; "The Undressy Review," With an exhibition of the Most Beautiful Girls and Most Beautiful Boys in France," at the Ambassadeurs; "Hide Your Piano," at the Marigny; "The Convent of Carcasse and the Enchanted Swimming Pool," at La Pie Qui Chante; the real French Can-Can at the Coliseum; the real Can-Can of Montmartre at Tabarin and "Phipli," the greatest success of the French stage. It is based entirely on sensational bedroom scenes. The play is to be seen in New York this Winter.

For months fresh tights have been entirely abandoned in the Paris theatres, and even at the opera, certain of the smaller halls, such as the Libertins Theatre, produce plays showing the chorus all but unclothed and with such titles as "The Little Parisian Girls."

And yet though the highest French legislative body devoted an entire day to the denunciation of the Paris theatres, not a word of protest is heard from the public. On the contrary, they, according to the theatre managers, invariably demand tickets to the most risque plays.

SENATOR HITS RISQUE PLAYS.

In his talk in the Senate, Senator La Maselle, alarmed at the spread of immoral plays, boldly denounced the danger, and read titles of plays then running. It went in full. The titles he read were: "Bedtime of the Ingenues," a Revue Without Chemises." He also read from a program the headings for each act. They were: First, "The Sixty-Five Temptations;" Second, "Conspiracy;" Third, "On Love's Bridge," and fourth, "A Procession of Voluptuousness."

The Senator reviewed the field of immoral entertainments of Paris, such as the night clubs and the dance halls, showing their influence on the degradations of youth, the breaking up of families, the spreading of corruption, the injuring of health, favoring of alcohol and development of tuberculosis and the fostering of opium smoking.

(The phase last mentioned will be described in subsequent instalments.)

STREET IMPROVEMENTS APPROVED BY MAYOR

Mayor Peters approved three orders of the street commissioners for street improvements as follows: Laying out and construction of Webster street, Brighton, as a highway from Cambridge street to the Allston street playground, with the name of Wyola street; widening and construction of Centre street, West Roxbury, as a highway from the southeasterly side of Spring street, and the laying out and construction of Kilmarnock street, Jamaica Plain, as a highway between Boylston street and Queensberry street.

PLAYGROUND URGED FOR SOUTH END CHILDREN

Children of the South End, within the district bounded by Dover, Eliot, Albany and Arlington streets, and by Columbus avenue have sent a petition to Mayor Peters asking for a playground in that section. The petition suggests that the tracks of the New Haven & Hartford & Albany railroads running through the district be covered and the roof utilized as a playground. The children also request the Mayor to take the necessary steps to provide a public reading room.

Lloyd George Facing Three Great Crises

By International News Service.

London, Sept. 16.—Never in the long and crowded history of the British empire has a Prime Minister—the helmsman of the British ship of state—been burdened with such mountainous cares and responsibilities as rest today upon the shoulders of David Lloyd George. Three immediate crises confront the Welsh statesman:

1—Widespread turbulence throughout the United Kingdom if Terence MacSwiney, hunger striking Lord Mayor of Cork, dies in Brixton jail or any of the eleven Sinn Fein hunger strikers die in the Cork jail.

2—Increasing menace of actual civil war in Ireland now that the negotiations between the Sinn Fein military and civil authorities and the Irish moderates for a dominion home rule scheme have broken down.

3—The national coal strike on September 25, which threatens to plunge the industry of the nation into chaos and may spread into actual industrial warfare.

The Premier is expected to go to Paris next week to confer with Premier Millerand on Russo-Polish situation. The Premier desires to be relieved of sole responsibility for negotiations between Russia and the allies and Europe and wants the nations to enter with Great Britain in a united policy, so that the allies may show the Soviet a single front.

Lloyd George and Italy were responsible for the movement in favor of a moderate policy toward Germany which came perilously near bringing Great Britain and France to an open break. These differences have now been patched up and a new ambassador is going to Paris.

The critical situation in the Near East, where the Bolsheviki are threatening India and British interests in Persia, is actually a matter for the foreign office, but the hand of Lloyd George is seen in all decisions.

The British government is hard pressed for money. Taxes have mounted to unprecedented heights and gigantic expenditures are necessary daily to maintain the military establishments in Ireland, Egypt, Anatolia, Mesopotamia and India.

It is the bad financial plight of the treasury which increases the fears over the labor situation.

City Hall Girls Bring Home Lunches

The latest group of girls to join the rapidly growing "Bring-Your-Lunch-From-Home" Club to beat the extortionate prices in Boston lunch rooms are those in City Hall. Seated in the rest room eating lunches that save them dollars weekly are, left to right, Margaret T. Buckley, Marion Cameron, May Dowd and Mary Kane.

COUNTESS OWNS TO BIGAMY

Ida Von Claussen Admits She Never Divorced Her Former Husband; Drops Suit

Reno, Nev., Sept. 16.—Countess Ida von Claussen-Davis-Dona-Mayberry, who filed suit in the Reno District Court for the annulment of her marriage to Raymond H. Mayberry, a Los Angeles movie actor, announced today that a reconciliation had been effected between herself and Mayberry.

She stated that Mayberry had agreed to assign to her $50,000 of a fortune he will soon inherit if she would return to him. Under these circumstances she accepted, the countess said, because "$50,000 is not picked up every day."

The countess admitted that she is not divorced from her former husband, Francis Dona of New York. With this announcement indications were that the countess would be forced to defend a bigamy suit brought against her by the State of Nevada.

District Attorney Summerfield, however, is of a different opinion, as no step has been taken in the threatened bigamy proceedings.

INDICTED AFTER FATAL GUN DUEL

Springfield, Sept. 16.—John Luvara of this city has been indicted by the Hampden County grand jury charged with first degree murder in connection with the death of James Mosca of New Haven, Ct., who was killed on August 16 during a gun duel in which both men participated.

William L. Pass of Boston was indicted charged with perjury during his testimony at the murder trial of Jennie Zimmerman.

PUBLIC WAITING FOR LOW SUGAR

Dealers Driven to Use "Ballyhoo" Men to Induce Indifferent Customers to Buy

Greater Boston grocers are now using "ballyhoo" men to induce customers to buy sugar at 11-2 cents upward—the same sugar that only a few weeks ago the public was compelled to beg for at extortionate prices.

Despite the lower prices and urgings to buy now for canning, housewives are not purchasing any more than is necessary for immediate needs. The opposition seems to be to wait for a still lower price that is anticipated with the placing of new crops on the market.

Waltham saw 15½ cent sugar in unlimited quantities today as did other sections. The Revere Refinery, however, on returning to the market held its price at 17½ cents. New York and Philadelphia refiners lowered their prices to 15 cents and quoted 14 cents for second-hand sugar.

Like coal, American sugar is offered to Europe at a lower price than at home. Offers of 13½ cents have been made on 12,000 tons for export.

Police Veterans to Dance

The annual reunion and dance of the 26th Company, Military Police Veterans' Association, will be held in the Concord State Armory, Tuesday evening, October 12.

The Bring-Your-Lunch-From-Home idea advocated by the Boston American as a means of saving money in restaurants and are saving money and time.

Superintendent of Public Buildings Fred J. Kneeland is with the girls in their move to reduce the cost of living, having supplied them with a steel cabinet which serves as a sideboard for storage of food and dishes. The girls eat in the regular rest room at City Hall Annex and have a jolly time beating the profiteers.

LUNCH IN REST ROOM.

Some of the girls who were indulging in their home-made noonday luncheon when they met an American reporter and photographer called at the rest room with Gertrude Fitzgerald of Dorchester, Nellie Heffernan, Dorchester; Rhoda E. Saunders, Roxbury; Mae F. Sullivan, Jamaica Plain; Katherine H. Flynn, Roxbury; Margaret T. Buckley, City; Marion Cameron, East Boston, May Dowd, East Boston; Mary Murphy, Dorchester; Catherine Farrell, City; Marguerite E. Curran, Margaret A. Prout, Helen E. Ivers and Mary Mcsweeney, which and except the girls they were drinking was prepared by Miss Mary Kane of Dorchester, the efficient matron who has charge of the rest room.

REBELLED AT HIGH PRICES.

"We simply got tired of paying outrageous prices for lunches and going hungry at the same time," said Miss Gertrude Fitzgerald, one of the biggest boosters for the "Bring-Your-Lunch-From-Home" plan. "Now we are carrying our own lunches from home and are getting more to eat. It costs us an average of 15 cents for a good lunch. The other day one of the girls in the Hall went to a nearby restaurant and paid 30 cents for her lunch and said she was hungry when she got through.

"This restaurant in question charges 25 cents for a piece of pie, ten cents each for rolls, ten cents for a cup of tea, 15 cents for soup and (last week it was 30), 20 cents for jelly sandwiches, 25 cents for a small dish of baked beans. These items only for the purpose of comparison. We buy the materials for 18 cents a dozen, thus giving a girl two rolls for three cents.

MAKE BIG SAVINGS.

"We used to pay 10 cents for a cup of cocoa. Now we buy a can of it for 22 cents. That lasts six girls more than a month. At 10 cents a day six girls would pay $15.60 a month for cocoa, so you see we are saving on that one article in at least $14.45 for four weeks.

"We now buy enough jelly for twenty sandwiches for 20 cents—what we formerly paid for one sandwich. We buy a loaf of bread for 15 cents, anyone can easily figure how much we save by making our own sandwiches.

"Sugar is still too high, so we don't use it. If everybody used as little as possible it would soon take a tumble to where it belongs. Instead, we use sweetened condensed milk. Four cans last six girls a month. Add 6 cents for condensed milk to 27 for the can of cocoa and you get the total cost for drinks per month. Some girls prefer tea and carry it from home.

COOK ON ELECTRIC STOVE.

"Anyone who has brewed tea knows that it is not worth ten cents per cup. Almost any restaurant could make money on it at five cents, yet nearly all Boston restaurants charge ten cents for it.

"We buy a pound of potato salad for twenty cents. A girl gets a big portion for five cents. Restaurants near City Hall charge 35 cents for an order of it. They charge 15 cents for a small order of sliced tomatoes. We buy them at ten cents a pound. Six girls can be fed on a pound.

"Restaurants charge ten cents for a glass of milk. We buy it by the quart for twenty cents. There are four glasses to the quart. The net saving to us is 20 cents for four persons.

"We have a nice electric stove on which we cook our soups and stews. Each girl cleans her own dishes. We buy things by turn in a co-operative way.

"Although most of the girls at City Hall get $25 a week, they cannot afford to pay the high prices Boston restaurants are charging. We think the carry-your-lunch-from-home idea is a fine one and we believe more working girls should put it into execution."

The other girls gathered around as Miss Fitzgerald expounded her ideas and they all agreed that she outlined their case as well as it could be done.

Who's next to join the "Bring-Your-Lunch-From-Home" Club?

MUSICIANS GET $65 A WEEK

Players in 'Legitimate' Houses Get $44 Under New Scale; First Raise in Five Years

An increase of about 70 per cent. in wages has been granted organized musicians employed at motion picture houses, theatres and vaudeville houses, dating back to Labor Day and continuing in force until September 1, 1921. This is the first boost in pay received by union musicians since the beginning of the war, as their last contract, which expired August 31 last.

Musicians playing in feature picture houses will be paid $66 a week, in place of the former $35, those employed in combination vaudeville and motion picture houses will receive $65 instead of $35, and those employed at second-class combination vaudeville and motion picture houses will be given $59 a week, instead of $30.

The new wage for musicians in the "legitimate" will be $41 a week, instead of $28, and for musical attractions $56 a week will be the scale. Musicians will play for rehearsals without compensation and the sliding scale is abolished. Orchestras will play at the Hollis and Tremont theatres only when musical plays are attractions.

HARTNESS WON NEARLY 2 TO 1 IN VERMONT

Montpelier, Vt., Sept. 16.—The complete tabulation of the State primary election vote shows that James Hartness of Springfield won by a vote of nearly two to one over his opponent in the four-cornered Republican contest for Governor.

The complete vote was Hartness, 23,770; Frank W. Agan of Ludlow, 12,858; Curtis S. Emery of Newport, 11,744 and Fred H. Babbitt of Rockingham, 11,444.

BANDIT REWARD OF $200 GIVEN WOMAN

Bridgewater, Sept. 16.—A check for $200 as reward for aid given in the capture and conviction of the bandits who raided in the attempted holdup of the L. Q. White Company payroll, December 24, 1919, has been given to Mrs. Ruth C. Johnson, wife of Simon Johnson, proprietor of the Elm street garage, West Bridgewater, by L. Q. White, treasurer of the company.

Brooks at Williams

OPEN WARD FOR BABY PLAGUE

Special Care for Infantile Paralysis Cases at City Hospital

At the same time Mayor Peters named Dr. Wolfort G. Weiner of Brookline as an aid to the local health board and the Harvard commission announced plans to have daily diagnosis service to any doctor in the State. These are the latest developments in the State-wide fight against a spread or the disease.

Six new victims were admitted to the City Hospital during the past twenty-four hours. No deaths were reported.

In Lynn, where four children have died of the disease within two weeks, four new cases developed.

While rapidly reaching the proportions of the 1916 epidemic the disease is more general than at any time since that year.

Health officials hope to combat the threatened epidemic before it gets beyond its present stage.

The decision to supply free laboratory tests to any doctor asking for it was decided upon at a conference of the Harvard Infantile Paralysis commission, of which Dr. H. W. Lovett of the Back Bay is chairman.

According to Dr. Lovett, two physicians trained in diagnosis work will immediately be appointed to work under the supervision of the commission. One of them will be Dr. S. A. Levine, an expert diagnostician, who will be there in addition to assisting the Boston Health Board in infantile paralysis work. Another diagnostician will also be appointed to work for the physicians in the State outside of Boston.

Under the commission's plan, Dr. Lovett explained, any doctor in the State who has the least suspicion that his patient is a victim of the paralysis will be able to get an immediate diagnosis in this way much time and possibly many lives can be saved, he says.

A call for funds to help in the fight has been made by the Harvard Commission.

PICK BEACON ST. SITE FOR SCHOOL OFFICES

After long negotiation and a hunt for a suitable location for the new Boston School Committee, the Boston school committee at a special meeting approved the taking of the land and office building at No 15 Beacon street for that purpose. The price named was $65 per foot and to the project the purchase will be made, at a cost of $125,000.

Many locations have been for forty-three years on Mason street, but long ago definitely outgrew quate to the needs of the schools.

EX-OFFICER SURRENDERS TO FACE ATTACK CHARGE

Edward Mellary of No. 97 West Springfield street, who said he was a former policeman, attached to the Jay Street Station, gave himself up to the police on a charge of Dover Police Station, after having heard that a warrant had been issued for him on a charge of having been a party to the assault on Tuesday morning on Patrolman John L. Hunt of the East Dedham Street Station.

RECORD CARGO OF CANNED PINEAPPLE COMING HERE

Boston will soon receive the huge great single shipment of canned pineapples ever sent from the Hawaiian Islands to any port on the eastern coast of the United States. On September 24 the American steamer Lake Elsinore will sail from Honolulu and Kahuhi, bringing 114,- 485 cases of the luscious fruit from the former port and 13,295 cases from the latter.

GIRL, SPURNED, TAKES POISON

Alice Walmsly, Dying in Providence, Was Rejected by Fiance and Parents

Providence, Sept. 16.—Spurned by the man she loved, a former marriage a failure and the home of her parents closed to her, Alice Walmsly, twenty-two years old, of New Brunswick, Me., attempted to end her life today by swallowing five one-grain bichloride of mercury tablets in her room at the Narragansett Hotel here.

Attending physicians say she will die.

A new motive for the girl's suicide was revealed today when Mrs. William Walmsly of North Adams, Mass., her step-mother said the father recently received a letter from Alice, asking him to allow her to return home. It was not answered, Mrs. Walmsly said, because they did not wish her to return.

The girl had been married to a man named Frazer the stepmother said but she did not know his address. He is said to be in Canada.

Alice left her home four years ago and has since lived in Pennsylvania, Fairfield New Bedford and Providence. It was on a visit to Providence two weeks ago that she contracted the engagement, the breaking of which was believed to have prompted her to swallow the poison.

At that time she agreed to become the bride of Fred Bailey. They met while Alice was employed at the Bailey Hotel, where he was employed as clerk.

COUPLE QUARRELLED.

Three weeks ago the girl went to New Bedford and returned Saturday. She registered at the Narragansett Hotel. Bailey, in the meantime, left the hotel and got employment in a garage at Fall River. Yesterday Bailey says he learned that she had been friendly with another man, and Bailey wrote her a letter. The girl took place, and, according to Bailey the girl said that she was sorry that she said was unkind. She put some of them into a glass and was going to get some water to take the rest of the tablets. She did as he requested and threw them away then when he got out onto the street. Later he says he told her he was sorry that he could said she again threatened suicide.

PHONES PLANCE.

Bailey told the police that the girl showed no emotion before she took the bichloride of mercury tablets and a ticket for New York, and said she was going there. About an hour later Bailey received a telephone call from Miss Walmsly, who said, "I have taken the poison."

Bailey immediately called the manager of the hotel and notified them to go to Miss Walmsly's room. The girl was not so far as known had not worked while in this city. She has a brother, William, living in Patchtuck.

Cong. Glynn Renominated

Waterbury, Ct., Sept. 16.—The Fifth District Republican convention renominated Congressman James P. Glynn as a candidate for the Republican nomination.

Police Seek Missing N. Y. Girl Here

A letter bearing what purports to be the signature of Mrs. Flora Esmond of No. 424 West Forty-eighth street, New York city, received today by Superintendent of Police Crowley, asks the assistance of the police here in finding Mrs. Esmond, fifteen years old, who, her mother writes, left home on August 10.

Mrs. Esmond intimates that Miss Kiss, who would pass for a young woman of seventeen, she is five feet three inches tall and weighs 115 pounds, is to be found in a small time theatre, where photos are passed with vaudeville. The girl is a dancer of more than average ability. She has only been on the stage, however, for a common nose and is fond of cats, complexion.

AIM BIG GUNS AT ITALY'S REDS

Government Using Artillery to Suppress Soviet Workers Who Seized Big Plants

By International News Service.

Rome, Sept. 16.—Artillery was planted today by government troops on the heights overlooking this city where the dock workers have joined the iron and steel workers in adopting the Russian Soviet system for the control of industry.

The guns were trained on the shipyards and factories which were seized by the workmen.

The workers retaliated by hoisting three red flags over shops in the harbor which had been taken over and which are being operated by them. A group of extremists who proclaim themselves Anarchists raised two black flags.

It is understood that the government will shortly convoke Parliament in order to give certain legislative powers the recognition in the control of transportation.

Officials representing the ministry say that the government is optimistic. They claim that the men have come to their senses and steel mills are without funds and raw materials. Premier Giolitti is expected to intervene to bring about an understanding between the capital workers and the employers.

Fahey Belittles Soviet Situation in Italy

New York, Sept. 16.—Light is made of the seriousness of the situation in Italy by John H. Fahey, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who arrived in this city from Liverpool on the steamer Adriatic. Mass. who arrived on the steamer Olympic from a visit of several months in Europe.

He said that Italy, just as all other countries in Europe, is suffering from unsettled industrial conditions, and a consequent labor unrest. Food is scarce. There was a shortage of coal. The present movement, Mr. Fahey says, is not representative.

He says the extremists in the labor movement in Italy form only a small minority of the people in Italy. He said their following is small, and the movement which they have provoked is not backed by the hearty approval of workers of all classes. It is not to be taken as greatly significant, he said.

FAMOUS SOMERVILLE DWARF DIES IN MAINE

Skowhegan, Me., Sept. 16.—Joseph Hamilton, the famous dwarf of Somerville, Mass., died here at the home of his cousin, Selectman Clyde H. Smith, where he had been living home for the past four years. The deceased was a dwarf and well known throughout New England.

The funeral will take place here at Atheon Harrison and burial will be at Atheon.

DORCHESTER CHILD STRUCK BY AUTO

Four-year-old Mary Murphy of No. 19 Smith street, Dorchester, was struck and knocked down at the corner of Harvard and Washington streets, Dorchester, as she attempted to cross the street in front of the motor car driven by Frank W. Ryan of 173 Magnolia street. She is suffering with possible internal injuries and cuts and bruises about the head and body.

PRIEST MADE GUARDIAN OF SEVEN ORPHANS

Springfield, Sept. 16.—The Probate Court has appointed the Rev. John F. Griffin, pastor of the Holy Rosary parish, legal guardian of the seven children of Joseph Fahey, late of Ware, whose wife was drowned in the Chicopee River at Indian Orchard School swimming pool a few weeks ago. The youngsters range in age from one to thirteen years.

WIFE FORGOT TO TELL OF FIRST MARRIAGE

Fall River, Sept. 16.—Judge Plinn of the Superior Criminal Court is annulling the marriage of Henry P. Smith, a New Bedford police officer, to Mrs. Mary Smith, also of New Bedford, on the ground that Smith, the officer in which he alleged that his wife had failed to mention her first wedding previous to their marriage.

BEECKMAN REFUSES TO BE CANDIDATE

Providence, Sept. 16.—Governor R. Livingston Beeckman of Rhode Island will not be a candidate for re-election. His refusal to run again for the office was disclosed in a letter to Senator F. Parker Ely, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee.

EAST BRIDGEWATER PRIEST TRANSFERRED

East Bridgewater, Sept. 16.—The Rev. Jeremiah J. Hurley, pastor of St. John's Church, has been appointed pastor of St. Thomas Aquinas Church of Braywood, Mass. The Rev. Michael J. Buckley of Norwood will succeed Father Hurley.

FATHER IS JAILED FOR KISSING HIS CHILDREN

Springfield, Sept. 16.—H. O. Alexander of New York and Springfield has been ordered under police custody in Charlotte, N. C. He attempted to kiss his five children who were recently given the custody of his wife by the Probate Court.

FULLER GAINS 2 VOTES IN MEDFORD RECOUNT

A recount of the vote in the contest for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor in Wards 2, 3, 4, 5, of Medford netted a gain of two votes for Alvan T. Fuller over his opponent, Joseph E. Warner, according to figures completed by the Registrars of Voters.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 16.—Jacob Margolies, an attorney at this city, has been disbarred from practicing in the courts of the country. Margolies was prominent during the war as the defender of conscientious objectors.

Jealous Wife Fined by Woman Jury

The first woman jury in Indiana Harbor, Ind., settled in five minutes a case in which one woman summoned to court a neighbor whom she accused of eating ice cream with her husband. The jury fined the complainant $10. Photo shows the jury listening to the reading of the verdict by the clerk.

IRISH VOLUNTEERS NOW 200,000

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

London, Sept. 16.—However these dark days in Ireland may end, when the book of the period is written and added to the tragic history of the past, its most romantic chapter will be the story of the Volunteers, the citizen army of the Irish Republic.

A league of youth, 200,000 strong, organized secretly, defending themselves with smuggled arms and weapons wrested by daring holdups of soldiers and constabulary, wearing no uniforms, receiving no pay, working in the fields and shops by day, drilling by night, preserving the peace and order of the infant and perhaps ill-started republic on the one hand and waging a guerrilla war-fare with the British military on the other, they represent a spirit which is both chivalrous and ruthless. Their enemies speak of them as "the terror." To the vast majority of the people of Ireland they epitomize the hope of national independence.

EXISTED BEFORE REPUBLIC.

The Volunteers antedate the republic and even Sinn Fein, considering the latter as a practical movement. When Ulster unionists a few years ago drew into themselves six of the nine counties of Ulster and took a solemn covenant to preserve the union with Great Britan at all costs they organized for defense against the rising tide of national spirit the Ulster Volunteers. The Irish Volunteers was the answer.

Sinn Fein, as a movement, is pacific, philosophical and sophisticated. Arthur Griffith, the vice-president of the republic and unquestionably its directing genius, studied the resurrection of Hungary and saw in it a case which Ireland might parallel. He developed that policy, and as a publicist presented it to Ireland and called it "Sinn Fein." His idea was to cease fighting England, to cease petitioning England, but, bit by bit, to take over the government constitutionally, and by the exercise of passive resistance refusing to recognize British laws, or obey British authority, gradually to elbow Great Britain out of Ireland.

It was the Sinn Fein policy which quietly carried by-election after by-election in the various localities, until in 1918 it established a republic controlling 73 out of 105 seats in all of Ireland. It is this policy which set up republican courts, encouraged the population to bring their cases there and to refuse service in British juries, and which in the course of only a few months has literally wiped out British civil jurisdiction in the South of Ireland.

VOLUNTEERS ARE AGGRESSIVE.

The Volunteers, on the other hand, are militant, aggressive and young. They led the bloody rising of Easter week, 1916, and kindled the fire which Sinn Fein directed to its ends. Now they serve the republic which they, above all, helped to create. The ardor of their youth is somewhat tempered by the cooler, more disciplined, more conscious policy of Sinn Fein and the republican government.

To understand their power you must know the geography of Ireland. A country with a population which has been steadily declining for a hundred years, Ireland today contains fewer people throughout its entire length and breadth than the city of New York. It is a country of bogs and mountains, and of easy access to the sea. These youths are for the most part farmers' sons. They know every inch of the land, every nook in the hills. They have behind them a sympathetic population and they have in them a love for adventure and for personal exploits.

Their record is like a tale from Robin Hood. They are responsible for the "outrages" which have led to the establishment of martial law in Ireland—the killing of constables, the burning of barracks, the robbing of the mails. At the same time that they are crippling every effort of the British police they are themselves responsible for prosecuting thieves, suppressing secret distilleries, enforcing the licensing laws, and in all respects fulfilling the capacity of civil police.

AN UNUSUAL WARRANT.

They have to their credit the securing of at least one prosecution where the British police failed—the famous "cause célèbre" of the Munster & Leinster Bank robbery, which took place last Fall, when they not only apprehended the thieves, but were able to restore the bulk of the 17,000 pounds which had been stolen. The warrant which they served on the criminals is a document worthy of preservation. It not only authorizes the arrest, but indicts the British police at the same time. It reads as follows:

"To .....

"I (name of volunteer) being the officer for the Midleton area, responsible for the lives and property of all Irish citizens, hereby arrest you on the charge of having (with others) waylaid and robbed certain bank officials on the morning of November 11. As the enemy police (the Royal Irish Constabulary) have aided and abetted this outrage instead of tracking down the culprits, it is my duty to the public until such time as an Irish police is established, to capture and punish the robbers in this particular outrage which is only one of many carried out at this period when Irishmen are making the final struggle for independence.

"Signed ..... Commander."

Whether they are committing the assaults which the British call "outrages" and they call "acts of war" or whether they are hauling a man into court for being unkind to his mother—as they did while I was in Ireland—they are acting illegally and are subject to arrest.

AMAZING SECRET SERVICE.

That have a system of secret service which is amazing. Hidden away in whitewashed cottages in the hills they have hospitals where they take their wounded, and their nurses, trained in first aid, are welcomed into the ranks of this strange army. There are many girls among the Volunteers. They are especially used as dispatch riders and carry messages from town to town, on bicycles or on horseback.

There are Volunteers in every crowd that assembles. On the last Sunday night that I spent in Dublin the city was in an ugly mood. Some soldiers got into an altercation with civilians on O'Connell street. A crowd grew, the quarrel threatened to be a riot. The police could not disperse the crowd, their presence only increased the tension. Two or three men stepped out from the shadow. They spoke a few words quietly and firmly. The crowd broke up. The danger was over.

But they can make a lightning change from acting as preservers of the peace to being violators of the law. Some few weeks ago the Viceroy at Dublin Castle, the headquarters of the British administration in Ireland, was accustomed to send an officer to the post office every morning at 4 o'clock to get the official mail. At ten minutes to 8 one morning a smiling British officer rode up on horseback, took the mail which was handed to him and rode away. At 8 o'clock another officer rode up, asked for the mail and was promptly arrested. Only, unfortunately, he was the emissary from Dublin Castle, and the Volunteer had the mail.

RAIDING THE MAILS.

With guards everywhere the Castle mail continues to be raided. During the time that I was in Ireland thirty men, armed, but unmasked, held up the mail in the streets of Dublin in daylight with such speed and precision that no one was disturbed. More daring still was the raid on the post office itself some weeks previous, when a dozen or more armed men came sliding down the mail chutes with the post bags and leaped into the sorting room with revolvers in their hands.

"I hope the Irish question will be settled soon," complained an Irishman, "because we are training a fine bunch of highwaymen."

But they are not without a sense of honor. In Cork a man showed me a copy of a letter which he had sent a few weeks previous to his wife in another city. He had enclosed twenty-six pounds in bank notes. Twice on the way the mails had been raided by masked men, holding up the mail wagon on the high road. Both times the letter had been opened. But two weeks after it had been posted it reached its destination. It was pasted up, stamped with the seal of the Irish republic, and it still contained the twenty-six pounds.

WAR ON BRITAIN IN ORIENT

Asiatic Bolshevik Congress Plans to Strike at England's Power in East

Constantinople, Sept. 16.—A gigantic upheaval against the British throughout the Orient was foreshadowed by speeches at the Asiatic Bolshevik congress at Baku.

More than 1,000 delegates represented the entire Islamic world.

A nationalist communique said the speeches forecast "serious indications of a great movement against British rule in the Orient."

The Moscow government was represented. M. Tchitcherin, the Bolshevist Foreign Minister, said Soviet Russia would reserve a free hand for action against British interests in the Orient until Moscow and the British government entered into a direct agreement.

"GENERAL LAWS" TO BE REVISED STATUTES' TITLE

The joint special legislative committee on revision of the statutes directed that the revision be called the "General Laws"; and that the constitution of the United States and the constitution of Massachusetts be printed at the beginning of the first volume.

Representative Abbott of Haverhill moved that the sixth committee on the liquor law chapter be instructed to make changes, in the direction of elimination, to accord with the ratification of the prohibition amendment to the federal constitution and the passage of the Volstead act, but asked that the motion be laid over until the next meeting, next Wednesday, and it was so voted. Thirty-four of the sixty-one members were present.

PRESIDENT OF PANAMA URGES UNITED CONTINENT

Washington, Sept. 16.—Declaring that Pan-Americanism stands for all Americans and "only" for the Americans, Dr. Belisario Porras, president-elect of Panama, appealed for a closer association between the United States and the twenty-one American republics at a banquet given in his honor by Secretary of State Colby at the Pan-American Union.

PROVIDENCE WOMEN TURN OUT FOR G. O. P. CAUCUS

Providence, R. I., Sept. 16.—For the first time in the history of city women participated in Republican ward caucuses, held here for the nomination of delegates to the State and congressional city and municipality conventions and the election of ward committees. The women turned out in large numbers in most of the wards and they were also well represented in the nominations and elections.

ITALIAN WOMAN MADE CITIZEN IN LAWRENCE

Lawrence, Sept. 16.—Miss Emily Legore of No. 174 Garden street has been admitted to United States citizenship and has the honor of being the first Italian woman to be naturalized here. She is employed as a clerk in a department store and for several years has been a sewing instructor at the industrial school at evening classes. She has been in this country sixty-three years.

ADAMS STARTS TALKS ON UNITARIANISM

Ernest G. Adams of Boston, chairman and treasurer of the Unitarian campaign under the honorary direction of former President William Howard Taft, will open his speaking tour as "courier-interpreter" of Unitarianism tonight in the Wellesley Hills Unitarian Church, his first engagement on a swing around thirteen cities in ten States on a limit of seventeen days for the trip of 5,000 miles.

PLAN TO SIMPLIFY INCOME TAX FORMS

Washington, Sept. 16.—Means of simplifying income tax forms for 1920 were discussed at a conference between William M. Williams, commissioner of internal revenue, and his assistants, and delegates representing the principal business associations of the country.

JEWISH WINE MAY BE RETURNED TO OWNERS

Springfield, Sept. 16.—The 200 gallons of Jewish Passover wine seized in this city by prohibition agents, March 25, may be returned to the owners, Jacob Kranats and Jacob Lipshitz. They claim that they have an order from Daniel P. O'Connell of Boston, director of prohibition, ordering the return of the wine.

To Keep Hair Curly, Wavy and Beautiful

Here is how your hair can be curled nicely, easily and harmlessly. Before doing it up, apply a little liquid silmerine with a clean tooth brush. In three hours you will have just the prettiest curls and waves—and they will look and feel as natural you'll never mind not doing without silmerine thereafter. You won't be troubled any more with hair straining around your face—with burns, uneven ends, nor with that dull, dead appearance. The hair will remain in curl ever so long.

Any druggist can of course supply you with liquid silmerine, and a few ounces will last you a long time. It is neither sticky nor greasy, and is really a delightful thing to use. It is doubly useful because of also serving as a beneficial dressing for the hair.—Advertisement.

PROTEST NAVAL WAGE AWARDS

Daniels Asks Probe of Charge That Shorter Hours Means Cut in Pay

Washington, Sept. 16—Protests against the naval wage award were submitted to the naval wage board by Secretary of the Navy Daniels. Secretary Daniels asked the board to investigate the charge of machinists that they will be reduced in actual pay because of the fact that working time has been cut from forty-eight to forty-four hours a week.

An appeal of draftsmen planners and estimators that they be included in the 5 per cent increase granted other naval yard workers was also submitted to the board for adjustment by the secretary.

Secretary Daniels made concessions to the workers by issuing an order that no change in present working hours shall be made. The award called for an eight-hour day, but some workers who were working time.

Gas Proved Deadliest Foe of U. S. Soldiers

By Universal Service.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Gas disabled more American soldiers than any other one agency in the World War, it is announced at the War Department. Of the 266,112 admitted to hospitals, 68,980 were gas cases. Comparatively few of them died, however.

Next to gas, admissions for gunshots wounds were most numerous, the total having been 85,132. Shrapnel accounted for 40,442, rifle balls for 22,530, shells for 21,812, hand grenades for 1,156, pistol balls for 257, bayonets, 245, falling objects, 192, aerial bombs, 159, cutting and piercing instruments, 146, airplanes, 83, crushing, 35, sabre, 14, and "explosives" not classified, 946.

a seven-and-a-hai-fhour day, declaring this an injustice to them inasmuch as they did not get an increase in pay equal to the increase in wages.

WEYMOUTH FETE TO DRAW 15,000

First Tickets for Field Day in Aid of Storm Victims Snapped Up

Chairman W. J. Holbrook of the general committee for the relief of the Weymouth tornado sufferers announced today that, estimated from the sale of tickets for the big event next Saturday, at least 15,000 people will attend.

Sports such as are seldom witnessed at local carnivals, with world-famous athletes competing, mark the event.

There will be horse racing and bazaars of an elaborate nature. Guertin, a former Weymouth resident, will be seen in thrilling stunts. He is the world champion high jumper.

HOPES TO BREAK RECORD.

Guertin will try to break the world record in the running high jump. Incidentally, he says if there is anyone who wants to jump against him he will gladly defend his title.

From all sides athletes are coming in to John Reidy, in charge of the amateur sporting events, to compete in the handicap runs, of which the Boston American ten-mile handicap will be the first feature.

Following this contest there will be a one mile handicap, a quarter mile handicap, a hundred-yard dash for registered amateurs.

The general committee has sent out the copy of its souvenir program, and everything which will take place is definitely settled upon. All that now remains is for the athletes who are to compete to return their registration blanks to Sport Chairman Reidy at South Weymouth.

The first lot of tickets, numbering 2,500, were issued yesterday and sold within a few hours. The second lot of 2,000 were offered this morning and before noon these were also snapped up. The third issue was made this afternoon, and the remainder will be held for the gates where the big rush will take place Saturday noon.

Ticket sellers have been instructed by Chairman Holbrook to be on hand at 1 o'clock prompt. The events on the program will start at one.

AMERICA'S PRIZES READY.

The Boston American has its cups and prizes ready for the winners of the ten-mile handicap. The Stetson Shoe Company has supplied the prizes for the quarter mile race; the Weymouth Trust Company and Edwin Clapp Rubber Company are supplying the prizes for the remaining events.

Before the gates are opened a surprise will be sprung in connection with bthe sporting events.

Not only will the field day be conducted for the tornado victims, but several motion picture houses in the State have offered to give benefit performance in behalf of the storm victims.

Arthur McGreevy, proprietor of the East Weymouth Moving Picture Theatre, is making pictures of officials, tornado scenes, and will make a film of the events, which he will show next week in a benefit performance at Odd Fellows Hall.

CALLS FOR CASH TO AID COX

Moore Warns Administration Leaders They Must "Get Money" to Win Election

By Universal Service.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Edmund H. Moore, pre-convention campaign manager for Governor Cox, is here in the role of political rescuer. His remedy for the fit of grogginess contracted by the Democratic party in Maine last Monday was an ultimatum delivered to administration leaders. It read: "Get the Money."

Mr. Moore spent the entire day in conference with Attorney-General Palmer and Francis P. Garvin, Philadelphia financier. It will be recalled, revealed that much of Attorney-General Palmer's pre-convention campaign fund came from persons connected with the alien property custodian's office.

Mr. Moore had lunch at the Shoreham Hotel with Joseph T. Tumulty and Joseph T. Duffey, Pittsburgh oil man, who ran the attorney general's campaign for the Democratic nomination. Then they went to the attorney general's office and afterward to see Mr. Garvan.

The appeal from Governor Cox's manager, according to those in on the conferences, was in the nature of a warning that "all is just unless someone comes across." Some administration leaders flatly refused to "send good money after bad."

Complaints voiced by them that the campaign committee is a "disorganized institution which would get no-

Another who had worn glasses for years says: "I can now throw away my glasses and avoid the trouble of keeping them clean." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with a frightful headache and could hardly study at all. Now my headaches are entirely gone and I can study with ease." Another who had worn glasses for several

FORCE OPEN PONZI BOXES IN LEXINGTON BANK

Bankruptcy receivers for Charles Ponzi forced open two safety deposit boxes belonging to him in the Lexington Trust Company. Both were empty. Considerable mystery surrounded the two boxes, and receivers have been unable to learn what was in them owing to Ponzi's declaration that the keys had been lost. They were opened with Ponzis consent by Receiver Edward A. Thurston, assisted by Charles Storey.

Witnesses were summoned today for appearance before the Federal grand jury, which is reviewing the evidence in the Ponzi case.

Cocanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonsful of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advertisement.

Safe Fat Reduction

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of society and fashion. The overfat must therefore be healthless; revolting or monstrosity. Crazy, afraid of added pounds, everything is unwelcome and unattractive fat, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Tablets which quickly and safely reduce weight at the rate of two, three or four pounds a week without any change in the mode of life. The ideal figure is soon obtained, with a smoother skin and a better appetite and health improved. Marmola Tablets contain all the ingredients which made the Marmola Prescription famous. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe fat reducer by giving to your druggist the reasonable price, four dollars for one box or sending a like amount to the Marmola Co. 932 Garfield Building, Detroit, Mich., with a request that they send to you a full box of Marmola Prescription Tablets.

"Now I Can Walk," Says Mrs. Southcott of Medina.

"Here is another letter that makes me happy." says Peterson of Buffalo. "One that I would rather have than a thousand dollars."

"Money isn't everything in this world. There is many a big-hearted, fine man who would give all he has on earth to be able to produce a remedy with such mighty healing power as Peterson's Ointment, to sell at all druggists for 35 cents a large box."

Read this letter, written October 14, 1919, by Mrs. Albert Southcott of Medina, N. Y. It seems like a miracle, but it is true, every word of it.

"I know it because I get similar letters almost every day from people who have used my ointment for old sores, eczema and piles.

"Is it any wonder I am happy?

"Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.:

"Dear Sirs:—

"I was an untold sufferer from an old running sore that I had had for years. Your Ointment gave very relief from pain. A friend had me of your wonderful ointment and the first box took away the pain that had not left me before in years, and after using just nine dollars' worth of the salve I am cured. The ulcer was 3 inches by six inches, is all healed and I can walk, never, never, can I thank you enough for your kindness. I am sure no one recommend your ointment if you wish, I cannot say enough to praise it. Yours truly, Mrs. Albert Southcott, Medina, N. Y." UNITE TO CURB AUTO DANGERS

26 Massachusetts Civic Bodies Combine to Lessen Vehicle Accidents

Make the highways safe!

That is the slogan of the Safe Roads Federation of Massachusetts, which is now being organized to embrace motor vehicle drivers, women's associations, civic bodies and insurance companies in the Bay State.

Automobile accidents have multiplied at such an alarming rate that the State Department of Public Works, acting through Frank A. Goodwin, State registrar of motor vehicles, is forming a federation with the object of stopping careless use of roads.

Twenty-six organizations have already combined and their representatives will comprise the State council, with headquarters for the present in the rooms of the Massachusetts State Chamber of Commerce, No. 6 Beacon street. Meetings are held in Room No. 413, State House, at the call of Mr. Goodwin, who is chairman of the federation.

COSTS MEMBERS $1 YEARLY.

Civic bodies in every city and town in the State will be urged to form local councils to co-operate with the State council. The chief aim of the organization is to register every person, especially drivers of automobiles and motorcycles, to join the federation at a yearly fee of $1. This is to be used in defraying expenses of the organization.

About $2,700 has been raised. A contribution of $1,000 has been made by the Automobile Legal Association, and insurance companies have subscribed for the other $1,700. The insurance companies are expected to add considerably to this.

Edward C. Stone, of the Insurance Federation of Massachusetts, is vice-chairman; Col. Philip L. Schuyler, of the Massachusetts Automobile Club, is secretary, and Robert E. Stone, of the Insurance Society of Massachusetts, is treasurer. Several committees have been appointed to take care of various phases of the project, such as organization, legal affairs, complaints, finance and publicity.

Organizers are being sent all over the State to form local councils and arrange for the campaign against reckless driving and mistaken pedestrians. They report that cities and towns are responding in an enthusiastic manner.

TO PUBLISH AUTO FACTS.

Posters bringing home striking facts on automobile accidents and urging obedience to the law are being printed. Mr. Goodwin is having printed about 100,000 copies of a pamphlet containing points on the law that auto motor vehicle operators should know. These will be distributed throughout the State.

The official emblem of the organization, which will be posted on the windshield of members' cars, is octagonal in shape, with colors of red, white and blue. A red circle surrounded by blue and white gives the appearance of a bull's-eye. It bears the admonition, "Obey the Laws—Drive safely, and the name of the federation is in white on the red center.

The State council is considering several problems that cause accidents. At a meeting in the State House it was suggested that some action be taken on the dazzling headlight annoyance. Mr. Goodwin announced that his department is now making a thorough study of the problem and that by Jan. 1, when the new registrations go into effect, he expects to have a rule that will be practicable and bring convictions of those who disobey the regulation.

OPPOSE HORN NOISES.

There was also considerable discussion as to whether a definite law could not be enacted to prevent needless blowing of horns. All were agreed that noisy autoists are a nuisance.

There is a law now against harsh and needless noise, but it was argued that it was not specific enough. The matter was referred to the committee on legislation for investigation.

The question of whether the federation should draw up a uniform list of penalties for driving automobiles while under the influence of liquor was also brought up at the meeting.

The twenty-six organizations that have already joined the federation are: Boston Chamber of Commerce, Associated Industries of Massachusetts, Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, Massachusetts Federation of Labor, Automobile Legal Association, Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, Boston Board of Fire Underwriters, Boston Chamber of Commerce, Boston Commercial Bureau, Boston Publicity Bureau, Department of Public Works, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Federation of Mutual Casualty Companies, Highway Safety League, Insurance Federation of Massachusetts, Insurance Society of Massachusetts, Massachusetts Automobile Dealers' Association, Massachusetts Automobile Underwriters' Association, Massachusetts Motorcycle Association, Massachusetts State Automobile Association, Massachusetts State Chamber of Commerce, Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, Massachusetts State Grange, Metropolitan Motor Car Dealers' Association, Mutual Casualty Companies of Massachusetts, Motorcycle Dealers' Association, National Automobile Dealers' Association, New England Insurance Exchange.

40,000 ODD FELLOWS TO MARCH IN BOSTON

It is expected 40,000 Odd Fellows from all parts of the United States and Canada will participate in a parade to be held in Boston, September 29, in connection with the annual meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge. There will be 250 women members of the Order of Rebekah; 5,000 Patriarchs Militant in uniform, and 30,000 Odd Fellows. There will be seventy-five bands in line. Gen. John G. Williams H. Oakes will be chief marshal, and Colonel Henry L. Kincaide his chief of staff.

MILTON HERO'S BODY LIES IN STATE AT TOWN HALL

The body of Michael F. Flaherty, Jr., who died from wounds received in the action at Chateau Thierry, has arrived at Milton from France. It was placed in the Town Hall and laid in state, with a guard of honor changed every two hours.

$25,000,000 INCOME TAX PAYMENTS HERE

The sum of $20,000,000 was received at the Internal Revenue offices on the Federal Income Tax instalment, making the total received for the month $25,000,000, Chief Deputy C. A. Leary announced.

AGED LOVER OF MUSIC PLAYS TO KEEP YOUNG

Denver, Sept. 16.—Though approaching the four score mark and ten in years, Mme. Leontine Harger, of this city, teaches music to many pupils and plays the piano daily to "keep young."

Mme. Harger, who is eighty-eight years, was born in Paris, but has lived in Denver nearly forty years. She is a finished pianist, and was a personal friend of the famous composer Liszt.

Declaring that people should "sweeten" their days with melodies of the great composers, Mme. Harger deplores the "noisy music" of the present day.

"The old songs reached the heart," she said, "but modern music seems to appeal only to the feet."

PICK BOSTON WOMAN TO REPRESENT U. S

Washington, Sept. 16.—Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby has picked Miss Cora Frances Stoddard of Boston as one of the official representatives of the United States to the International Congress Against Alcoholism. Miss Ellen Pendleton of Wellesley College is named as one of the patronesses. The congress meets in Washington, September 21-26.

$4,000 BLAZE DESTROYS SOUTH WEYMOUTH HOME

South Weymouth, Sept. 16.—The home of James O'Connell on Middle street, which has been vacant since Labor Day, was totally destroyed by fire of unknown origin. The damage is estimated at $4,000.

PROTEST NC-4 TABLET

London, Sept. 16.—Much criticism is being made in aviation circles on the action of the Plymouth City Fathers in connection with the erection of a tablet to commemorate the landing of the crew of the NC-4 on the Barbican last year. The NC-4, it will be remembered, was the first aeroplane to make the cross-Atlantic trip, and the crew landed on the historic Plymouth Rock, whence the Pilgrim Fathers embarked for the new world.

The criticism which is being directed toward the City Fathers at Plymouth is due to the fact that the only names to be handed down to posterity by means of the proposed memorial are those of—His Worship, the Mayor of Plymouth, and the town clerk. Commander Read and his band of daring adventurers are not to be mentioned on the tablet.

This has caused one of the many critics to burst into poetry and repeat the following lines, written by C. Smart in 1722—and very appropriate to the occasion:

"With pride of heart the church warden surveys,
High o'er the belfry, girt with birds and flowers.
His story, wrote in capitals, 'Twas I That bought the font and I repaired the pews."

SAYS WORCESTER JUDGE IS UNFAIR TO UNIONS

Worcester, Sept. 16.—Chairman A. J. Prendergast of the executive committee of the Moulders' Union charged today that union labor was being discriminated against by Judge Utley of the local District Court. Prendergast declared the judge refused to issue warrants for the arrest of strikebreakers alleged to have beaten union pickets. The altercation occurred outside the Reed & Prentice foundry on Gold street. The charges will be presented to the Central Labor Union.

Nasal and Throat Catarrh Drives Beauty from Face

Watery Eyes, Red Nose, Deep Lines Destroy Beauty. How to Relieve This Serious Threat to Beauty.

Perhaps you have been told that you need a change of climate to get relief from the torment of nose and throat catarrh. You look badly, with a red nose, watery eyes, and drawn expression. With all these facts in mind, C. E. Gauss Co., of Marshall, Mich., have perfected a remarkable combination treatment and now offer it to send free to all a trial treatment direct to your home. It is enough of a treatment to convince you of its potency. You are conscious of it. Your eyes clean up, your red nose bleaches out, you stop gagging, spitting and choking. This home treatment should arouse the interest of a host of people, for it is a fact that nine people in ten have this trouble, but do not realize how quickly they have it. You do not realize how quickly it may mar your natural beauty. It should be treated when the first symptoms of sneezing, coughing and sniffy feeling in the head makes their appearance.

Fill out the coupon today and mail it to C. E. Gauss Co., 170 Main St., Marshall, Mich., and a free trial of this celebrated home self treatment will be sent at once prepaid at no cost or obligation to you now or at any time in the future.

POLICE IN DEATH RACE ARE HELD

Three Salisbury Patrolmen Accused of Aiding and Abetting Contest

Exeter, N. H., Sept. 16.—Three Salisbury police officers have been arrested charged with aiding and abetting the automobile race from Salisbury to Portsmouth which resulted in the death of John Duffy of Lawrence.

Patrolmen M. J. Daley, Wilfred Fowler and Harrison Tyler are the officers in custody. Their arrests came as a sensational climax to the inquiry into the fatality and simultaneously with the arraignment of Joseph Crandell, driver of the death car, charged with manslaughter, in court here.

WERE PREVIOUSLY ACQUITTED.

The arrest of the patrolmen upsets the finding of the Salisbury Board of Selectmen, which, on hearing the testimony of the officers, absolved them from all complicity in the race. The officers then testified that they had tried to prevent the race.

A preliminary hearing was held before Judge H. A. Shute in Exeter court, and the cases of the officers continued until September 25. They were held in $200 bail each for their appearance before the Superior Court in Portsmouth on October 19.

Attorney John M. Stark of Concord appeared for the patrolmen, and attempted to have the case quashed, on the grounds that the arrests were made under the laws of 1901, which were not included in later automobile laws of the State.

TWO MACHINES IN RACE.

Medical Referee George E. Pender stated that he would present his findings in the case to County Solicitor William H. Sleeper before the end of this week.

The fatal race started early last Friday morning. It came to a tragic end in Smithtown, N. H., when the car in which Duffy and three other Lawrence men were riding crashed into a tree.

Duffy was pinned beneath the car and was dead when the machine was lifted from his body. Fred Dimauro, Charles McDonough and Arufidel were injured.

Henry McDougall of Haverhill was the driver of the second machine. The names of the occupants in McDougall's car have not been disclosed.

OFFICERS DIRECTED RACE.

It is alleged that arrangements for the twenty-seven-mile race from Salisbury to Portsmouth were made with the knowledge of the police. That a wager was made between the participants was also known.

Two patrolmen attached to the Salisbury department are alleged to have gone to Portsmouth to time the contestants and pick the winner at the end of the course. A third police officer is alleged to have started the racers.

It is claimed that Duffy's car was traveling seventy-six miles an hour when the fatal crash occurred in Smithtown.

Believes Sexes Should Meet in Dances

Miss Joy Montgomery Higgins, director of dramatics and pageantry of Boston Community Service.

Miss Joy Montgomery Higgins, director of dramatics and pageantry of Boston Community Service, replying to the charge by Rev. John Roach Straton of New York that "dancing was born in hell," made emphatic denial.

She declared that the young of both sexes should be allowed to meet in the dance, but that modern dances should be abolished, because they are ugly and unpleasant.

Dances would be joyless affairs indeed, she maintains, if only those of the same sexes, men with men and women with women, were allowed to dance together, according to the views of the clergyman.

BOTH SEXES SHOULD MEET.

"The young of both sexes should be allowed to meet in the dance," says Miss Higgins. "It is right, it is beautiful, but despite this there are modern dances that are ugly and unpleasant. They should be abolished. To do away with all dancing between the two sexes, however, is altogether too extreme. The Boston Community Service is opposed.

"In fact, here, at our cult house, we take the stand that dancing is a most beautiful and natural way for the sexes to come together. But not in many dances as they are danced today.

"What we take exception to, is the posture of some dancing. We can see, in the carriage of the bodies at dance women especially, the results of some ugly modern dancing. For instance, the so-called dubstante slouch is responsible for protuberant abdomens, for spinal derangements, leading to ugly walking; for numerous unbeautiful attributes of the physical body.

WOULD ABOLISH SLOUCHES.

"At our Boston clubhouse here, we of Community Service believe that there is no physical defect, due to ugly dancing, but has some reflection in the mental and spiritual life. No young man or woman. That is, he or she who slouches through the dance, which should be a thing of beauty, develops a slouch of mind and spirit. So we wish to do away with these unbeautiful dances. And we wish to substitute beautiful and wholesome dances in their place.

"We are very warm advocates of the right dances. We believe that these are a necessary and joyous form of expression. So we would, among other things, like to see a revival of folk dancing. We admired the two-step, as it swung along, some years ago, with long glides and military steps.

"I even would like to see a dance made of the romp—that is, I would like to see dancing really expressing what it was made to express—joy and the eager desire for fun, of wholesome, right-minded young people of the two sexes.

"But, as the Boston Community Service men and women agreed long ago, it is not only in dancing that the leisure of the youth of our city may be joyously spent. Take dramatics. I would like to see much more amateur dramatics among all young people than we have now. We believe here that pageants and dramatics would not detract from the lure of the professional stage.

MAKES LIVES HAPPIER.

"We believe they would add to that attraction. We believe that young persons, using their leisure to act in play and pageant, would educate themselves to want the best things in the professional theatre. Then managers would no longer be able to excuse their unwholesome plays on the grounds that they were what the public wanted.

"In short, let the two sexes come together joyously, in their leisure, in amateur play and pageant and in the right sort of dance. And let them eliminate the wrong sort. For, by refining beauty of expression to our social lives, even beauty to our dancing, we are building up the social fabric, and making our lives, through right dancing, happier and more useful in every way."

G. O. P. DEMANDS PROBE OF DEMOCRATIC FUND

Washington, Sept. 16.—Republican campaign managers will demand that a session of the Senate committee be held in Washington for the purpose of investigating charges that many heads of government departments have received letters demanding that they contribute to the Democratic campaign fund. WASHBURN WILL BE CANDIDATE

Sends Out Nomination Papers as "Independent" for Lieutenant-Governor

Robert M. Washburn was today sending out nomination papers for his independent campaign for Lieutenant-Governor, while Speaker Joseph E. Warner, following the Roosevelt Club directors' meeting, was attempting to decide whether he, too, will compete as an independent against Congressman Alvan T. Fuller, the Republican nominee.

The statement by Washburn of his candidacy was accompanied by a letter flaying the Malden Congressman. "When I can be both a decent politician and a Republican, I will not vote for a man who is neither," he said.

WASHBURN ACTS QUICKLY.

Washburn's decision to enter the lists was apparently made on the spur of the moment, after he and the other Roosevelt Club directors who have been making the attacks upon Congressman Fuller were characterized by Wendell Phillips Thorn as "a bunch of political cootties and imitation Dutch cleansers."

Fuller, having previously said that he knew of no reason why he should appear before a private tribunal to "try out" a matter which has already been decided by the voters, was at his summer place at Rye Beach, N. H., and, so far as known, was not represented in proxy at the meeting.

Washburn resigned as chairman of the directors after the Thors attack and at the time he announced his independent candidacy. Fuller had charged that Washburn, who was with Warner during the primary campaign, had staged the Roosevelt Club meeting as an attempt to launch the independent candidacy of Warner.

Warner denied that he is a law partner of Harold P. Hathaway who represented the Fall River Cotton Manufacturers' Association in the attempt to postpone the continuation-school bill, which provides that children between the ages of fourteen and sixteen who are employed in industry shall devote a certain number of hours every week to school and education. He said that he and Hathaway have never divided fees of any sort.

CALLS MEASURE VICIOUS.

Representative Benjamin Loring Young, who was Republican floor leader of the House under Warner, said that when he and Warner learned that Hathaway was attempting to defer the operation of the law they agreed that the Hathaway proposition was "a vicious measure, harmful to the best interests of the people," and that Warner asked Young to oppose it.

Representative John C. Hull of Leominster, chairman of the legislative committee on education, said that Warner told him he wanted the Hathaway bill to be tried on its merits and that he told Hull that he personally believed that the continuation school law should go into effect.

Warner intimated at the close of the hearing that he will not be an independent candidate unless such a step is absolutely necessary to secure complete vindication for him.

MANCHESTER, N. H., MAY HAVE ELECTION PRECINCTS

Manchester, N. H., Sept. 16.—It is probable that the city wards will be divided into precincts for the November elections and that the polls will be opened at 6 o'clock in the morning instead of 9 a. m., as has been the custom. A movement to this end was started by Alderman William O. Corbin of Ward 3 and will be brought before the Board of Aldermen next Tuesday.

MEXICAN COTTON CROP HARD HIT BY RAINS

Mexico City, Sept. 16.—Serious damage has been done by rains to the cotton crop in the states of Durango and Coahuila, C. H. Cunningham, United States commercial attache, today officially stated that the crop would be reduced 10,000 bales, leaving only 50,000 bales for export.

Traps Stray Dogs

Warwood, W. Va., Sept. 16.—Harry Barden, the town policeman, has adopted a unique method of catching stray dogs that is proving profitable. He has set wolf traps in different sections of the town and the canines attempted to go to their doom by big hunks of meat.

'Poverty' and 'Crime' for B. U. Students

"Poverty" is the name of a course being given for the first time this year at the College of Liberal Arts of Boston University. Another course, "Crime," will follow next semester. The former will deal with the characteristics, cause, relief and elimination of poverty and the history of philanthropic organizations.

Crime is an introduction to the science of criminal anthropology, including the causes and types of crime, modern penology, with special attention to the problem of the juvenile offender.

Assistant Professor Ernest R. Groves is the instructor of both courses. Professor Groves was formerly dean of the division of Arts and Sciences of New Hampshire College.

JOHN D. LEADING HERMIT'S LIFE

World's Richest Man Sets Aside All Cares and Calmly Awaits the End

By International News Service.

New York, Sept. 16.—The richest man in the world is no longer interested in making money. He is not greatly concerned with what becomes of the largest single fortune ever accumulated, although he hopes it may be used for good.

John D. Rockefeller, now traveling toward his eighty-second milestone of life, is a hermit surrounded by a few faithful servants, the man who has piled up a thousand millions finds no happiness in money or the retention of it. His chief joy is in playing golf.

Secluded in his Pocantico Hills estate the man who was one time for he no longer seems the title has turned contemplative, philosophical and disinterested in worldly affairs. The real responsibility today for the future care of the Rockefeller fortune is upon the shoulders of John D. Jr.

Mr. Rockefeller, Sr., in not unstated Ivy Lee, publicity director for the Rockefeller interests. "His health is excellent. But he simply has withdrawn from the world.

"Naturally he is interested in his interests in various projects he has fostered, such as the Rockefeller Foundation and other broad constructive work. He is far more interested in that than in acquisition of further money.

"But he is not so wrapped up in the details of his benefactions as you might imagine. All he asks of me now is that the work is going ahead as intended.

Mr. Rockefeller shrinks from further publicity. 'I just want to be left alone to spend the days that are mine,' he explains. Why should the world bother about an old man like me?'

"Mr. Rockefeller realizes he has only a few more years to live and he seeks no further trouble with anybody."

Andrew Carnegie's Credit Was Good

And Yours Is Good at Moller's

Andrew Carnegie started his business career as a bobbin boy at a dollar or so weekly. When he finally earned twenty-five dollars monthly as a telegraph operator he thought himself prosperous.

He often told the story, however, that not until he was able to borrow money—to establish credit—did he make any start towards wealth.

And so today the first sign of real prosperity is the establishing of Credit.

And Moller's many customers recognize the big difference between having credit and owing money.

They are people of taste and refinement—people whose surroundings must be attractive—and they are wise enough to use their credit at Moller's to enjoy lovely furniture and pay for it as they go along.

If you love to look at beautiful furniture it will pay you to see the new shipments at Moller's. If you want to own beautiful furniture it will pay you to ask about Moller's Credit plan, which is different.

And please remember—Moller's credit prices are always guaranteed to be lower than those at any Boston store selling for cash (with the possible exception of a few unimportant price restricted articles).

Just "Over the Charles"—a pleasant little journey. Drop in and listen to the latest Victor Records on the Victrola or Master-Tone.

NORTHWAY

The Organization and Product

By JOHN J. PRINDIVILLE

As a director of the Northway Motors Corporation and a resident of Framingham, I have been at the plant frequently, know the conditions there and what has been accomplished.

In less than two years after we broke ground for the first factory unit, the corporation had completed buildings with a total floor space of over 134,000 square feet; had machinery and equipment installed; jigs and tools made and assembled; its motor and truck designed, tested and perfected; and was producing trucks at the rate of 100 per month.

This accomplishment has seldom, if ever, been equalled in my manufacturing experience.

As a manufacturer and contractor, I am a user of trucks and have had experience with many high grade makes. After extended trials and severe tests I found the Northway truck superior to any other and have selected and am now using Northways for my business. Before next season all my manufacturing plants will be equipped with Northways exclusively. They have proven themselves—there are none better.

Having selected a good truck, the important item to the manufacturer or contractor is service. A delay in making a haul—frequently caused by lack of parts which have to come from a distant factory—causes the trucker loss of money, loss of business and sometimes loss of a contract. The location of the factory of the Northway Motors Corporation at Natick makes it possible to get parts without delay, and the prudent day and night service maintained by the Corporation is already a Northway truck-user immediate attention and the continuous use of his truck day or night, Sundays or holidays.

The Northway Motors Corporation has financed itself—is well and conservatively managed—has an established and increasing production and a successful sales department. Northway is already one of the successful industries of Massachusetts and is destined to be one of the largest.

KILLED ORDERS HIT INDUSTRY

Serious Situation Caused by Cancelled Contracts, Says U. S. Chamber

Washington, Sept. 16.—Practically every industry in America is affected, some seriously, by the cancellation of contracts, according to final analysis of the country-wide investigation just completed by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Cancellations were particularly notable in goods of interest to women. So many orders for silks were abrogated that manufacturers have organized a bureau which adjudicates all claims. Makers of hosiery and underwear express a determination to demand formal contracts with all orders. They also are organizing a bureau to handle the situation.

Dealers in men's clothing, it would appear, suddenly became obsessed with the thought that the public would not buy at the prevailing prices, and a rush to cancel orders followed.

The extraordinary cancellation of orders for baby carriages was due to a number of conditions, among them the shortage of domestic help. In a number of States the birth rate declined and there were fewer babies to ride in carriages.

During the period of low production furniture dealers were alarmed and placed big orders. Housing conditions became such that retail stores were exceedingly limited. A rush to cancel orders followed. The industry contemplated steps to place restrictions on orders and to begin a campaign of education that will insure more equitable treatment of the manufacturers.

U. S. FOR GERMANS AT INDEMNITY CONFERENCE

Washington, Sept. 16—It was learned today that the United States has joined with England in opposition to the decision by France and Italy that representatives of Germany must be barred from any participation in conference at which the amount of indemnity the German government will be called upon to pay is discussed.

SHOTS FIRED IN AUTO CHASE

Brookline Motorcyclist Captured After Wild Dash Along Tremont Street

With revolver shots popping at intervals, John Martin, aged twenty-six, of Brookline, riding a motorcycle, was chased for two miles along Tremont street by two patrolmen in commandeered automobiles, endangering the lives of scores of pedestrians and scattering witnesses in every direction.

At Shawmut avenue and Camden street Martin was overtaken and placed under arrest. During the battle which followed his capture police clubs were used freely and the driver of one of the commandeered cars had his clothes badly torn.

WOMEN NEARLY RUN DOWN.

Many women and children narrowly escaped being run down by Martin as his fast motorcycle tore a path down Tremont street from Scollay square where the chase started. During the excitement Mrs. Jerome Rodnick of Myrtle street, West End, fainted and was carried into a store.

The officers who figured in the chase were Patrolmen Eugene Sullivan and John T. McGovern, both of the City Hall avenue station. They arrested Martin on the charge of violating the traffic laws in Scollay square.

The attention of Patrolman McGovern, who was performing traffic duty at Tremont row, was first attracted to Martin as the latter turned into Scollay square at a dangerous clip. The motorcyclist ignored the officer's "stop" signal. A shrill blast from his whistle warned Patrolman Sullivan, stationed at the entrance to Tremont street. The latter attempted to stop him, but he shot past.

Both officers commandeered passing automobiles and the chase began. At Beacon street Martin nearly hit two women. In front of Keith's Theatre, the officers, in close pursuit, fired shots into the air, frightening hundreds on the street.

More shots were fired when Martin reached the Bulfinch Theatre, but he sped on past Eliot and Northampton streets. The officers gained on him rapidly, and when Camden and Shawmut streets were reached they jumped from the running boards of the autos and seized Martin.

Raymond Klaus of the Arlington Hotel, driver of one of the commandeered autos, had his clothes torn before Martin was landed at the Court square station.

Martin, who is a carpenter, had a companion in his side car, say spectators, but he was alone when the police placed him under arrest.

BURGLAR FINDS WINE, FORGETS HIS 'BUSINESS'

Talladga, Ala., Sept. 16.—G. F. Roper, who lives near here, is a firm believer in the theory that there is some good even in the lowly fermented juice of grape. A burglar who entered his house several nights ago, after having collected a large quantity of groceries from the family pantry and having gone through the old silver chest and extracted therefrom all that was valuable, came upon a jug of old grape wine in the attic. The next morning Roper found his valuables and groceries in a great pile in his attic. The empty jug was in the front yard.

CHICKEN THIEVES USE CHLOROFORM ON HENS

Columbus, Ind., Sept. 16.—Poultry fanciers—that is, those who have a fancy for other persons' poultry—have hit upon a new silencer to be applied when removing fowls from henhouses. To squelch the squawks they use chloroform!

Over in East Columbus, where people raise blooded poultry, the loss by theft has been heavy. At the home of Samuel Sharp, county superintendent of schools, all except two of his large flock of pure-bred chickens were gone, and the two that remained were stupid from the effects of the drug administered by the chloroform bandits.

British Deport German Colony in Samoa

San Francisco, Sept. 14.—Taking possession of the former German colony of western Samoa, seized during the war, Great Britain has deported its German residents and seized their property.

O. E. Moors of Oakland, visiting his brother, H. J. Moors, in the group of South Sea Islands at the time, has just returned with a graphic story of this episode in the colonial operations of England following the war. Maintaining that an action so drastic and imperialistic is without justification, H. J. Moors, the leading American merchant and trader in the islands, has issued an open letter of protest to Colonel R. W. Tate, British administrator of Samoa.

In his protest Moors says:

"It is my contention that the orders in councils being used here now are a provisional temporary form of rule and nothing more. They were said to have come into force as from May 1 of this year, and yet forty-five days later, and without invoking any of their provisions, our former German residents, who were not charged with any crime, breach of regulations or hostile intent, were deprived of their plantations, businesses and homes and ignominously deported from Samoa, where most of them had been domiciled for many years.

After reading the royal command they scattered to their homes aghast. The mandate announced that all inhabitants of German nationality or German blood would report at an early date to the Commissioner of Police to be put on board a transport for Germany.

There were 300 members of the comparatively small colony who were most vitally interested.

"MAKE MEN DO HOUSEWORK"

English Physician Would Have Them Help Aid Women to Shorten Hours

London, Sept. 16.—More men in these islands where laws still give that individual all the best of the bargain has read for years, and with joy, the various allegations regarding Cousin Sam's henpecked state.

And now comes Dr. T. Baillie Smith, medical officer for artillery, and says man's hours of work have been shortened, he should do some of the housework, so that the woman's hours may be shortened also.

It is America's time to chuckle, at last.

Up speaks Mrs. Pember Reeves and says: "Why, yes, but to make the advice practicable, there's the rub."

"The great thing women have to learn is how to organize," says Mrs. Reeves. "If a woman has a husband who is not handy at home she would sooner do the work herself than bother with him."

A fine opening, that. But she compers another chance. She adds:

"Some men can arrange flowers, while others would be better scrubbing floors. I certainly do not think it makes a man effeminate to help in the house."

Mr. Turner may have endangered his job as secretary of the Comrades of the Great War by agreeing to the new dictum, but restricting its scope to lighting the fire and cooking the breakfast before going to work. But then a part of his job is to find housework for ex-soldiers who can find no other employment, so perhaps he speaks with safety.

The investigations into the subject were continued. The secretary of the St. Pancras School for Mothers knows a husband who does the washing. All the husbands of those who attend the school can clean the windows. Those also have been "brought up properly" help in the house.

Lady Astor, who depends somewhat on the vote of mere man for her position in Parliament, refuses to be drawn into the controversy, as do several hopeful and potential candidates for similar honors.

LEAGUE IS IN SECRET SESSION

British Capitalistic Aims Denounced by D'Annunzio as Council Meets in Paris

Paris, Sept. 16.—The council of the League of Nations met today in Paris, but the purpose of its meeting was unknown. The French Foreign Office doesn't know why and a most careful and complete investigation has failed to reveal the reason.

The whereabouts of Leon Bourgeois, president of the league is unknown. He is reported to be "somewhere in France" on a vacation.

In this connection the following statement from Gabrielle D'Annunzio, the dictator of Fiume, is interesting.

By GABRIELLE D'ANNUNZIO.

The pseudo League of Nations in reality is nothing but an instrument by which the British Empire and other capitalistic States are planning to assure their hegemony the world over.

The pseudo League of Nations represents practically a powerless consolidation of strategic financial and colonial interests, and that for the following reasons:—

OWN MEMBERS HOSTILE.

1—Because in countries which have joined the league very strong majorities are openly hostile to the league as actually organized.

2—Because the various neutral countries, notably the Swiss Confederation, Sweden, Norway and the Netherlands, who have been invited to join the league under courteous forms, have returned evasive answers.

3—Because the peoples to whom the past of culture and highly developed social life assigns an eminent place among civilized nations behold themselves, like Germany and Russia, arbitrarily excluded from the pseudo League of Nations, and that by reason of the fact that their geographical position and their form of government clash with the strategic, financial and colonial interests of the dominating powers.

No moral credit can be allowed to institutions which are founded on the principle of self-determination of the peoples and do not cease to trample that principle under foot in every possible way.

JOINS IN IRISH PROTEST.

The British empire, by inflicting on Ireland, Egypt and India the cruelest and wickedest yokes, has shown itself to be more than any state whatsoever, unworthy of the respect and confidence of the civilized peoples.

I and my people join in the protest of the Irish republic and express faith in the universal consciousness which will oblige people to denounce the impostare and disown the pseudo League of Nations.

I and my people solemnly affirm our unshakable decision to resist by force every encroachment of the pseudo League of Nations upon city, port or the meanest fraction of Fiumean territory.

FORCE MILKMEN TO GIVE FULL VALUE

Lawrence, Sept. 16—The people of this city drink 25,500 quarts of milk a day, according to Dr. John H. Tobin, milk inspector. About 70 per cent. of this amount is Pasteurized, he told the members of the Board of Health, who are probing into causes and effects in the recent boost in milk prices.

The board, since the price went up, decided to make the milk men give the people 16 cents' worth of milk value and eliminate stale products. It was shown in the statistics that many Lawrence families are paying 40 cents to a dollar a day for milk since the price went up.

MAINE ELECTION BRITISH BLOW

Distrust of League Shown in Result, London Papers Declare

London, Sept. 16.—Englishmen who had hoped that America would participate effectively in the League of Nations, despite all indications to the contrary, have been staggered by the results of the Maine election.

The Washington correspondents of the London papers emphasize the crushing character of the blow. The Morning Post carries its story under the heading, "No Truck With the League." The story represents that the Democratic managers have been dazed by the results.

The correspondent of the Times says the returns reflect the American distrust of the league. The correspondent doubts the ability of Candidate Cox to overcome the national unpopularity of President Wilson and his administration.

The Daily Express says editorially: "It is a foregone conclusion that Mr. Cox will not be the next American President."

All of the papers stress the significance of the woman's solid anti-league vote.

At the office of the League of Nations in Piccadilly the officials admitted that Article Ten of the league is dead, so far as America is concerned, but they are satisfied that Senator Harding will eventually support the substance of the remaining articles, committing the United States to an attenuated participation.

PLAN CO-OPERATIVE SALE OF GRAIN CROP

Washington, Sept. 16.—J. R. Howard, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, has just announced the personnel of a committee of seventeen to organize a plan to market the American grain crop on a co-operative basis. As the wheat crop alone amounts normally to 800,000,000 bushels and would sell today for nearly two billion dollars, the gigantic nature of the project becomes apparent.

BRANDEGEE'S CAMPAIGN COST NOTHING, HE SAYS

Washington, Sept. 16. — Senator Wadsworth spent nothing in the primary fight for the Republican senatorial nomination in New York, according to a statement filed with the secretary of the Senate. Senator Smoot of Utah and Senator Brandegee of Connecticut also filed a statement of no expenditures in the primaries. Ella Boole, a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination in New York, filed a statement showing expenditures of $284 and contributions of $1,529.

SHAKEUP OF LIQUOR OFFICIALS IS PREDICTED

Washington, Sept. 16.—Internal revenue officials admitted today that the transfer of James Shevlin, supervising prohibition agent for the New York district, to an obscure post in Texas, is only the forerunner of a general shakeup and wholesale transfer of prohibition enforcement agents of both high and low degree throughout "wet sections of the United States."

What's the Story on Men's Clothing
for this Fall?

That's the question that's been fired at us from all sides. Along with politics, it seems to share first place in men's minds just now. Here are the facts as we see them and as they apply to our own business.

The most peculiar conditions exist in the clothing market these days inasmuch as a great many manufacturers and merchants have cancelled a large part of their orders on the finer grades of merchandise.

The Kennedy Stores, however, having a service to render the public, and not being afflicted to any great extent by the malady commonly known as "cold feet," have gone right ahead with their preparations, so that our customers can come here this season, as they always have in the past, and find the finest merchandise that the best makers are able to produce, and find it in tremendous quantities.

While strictly good clothes cost real money nowadays, they are no higher—in the Kennedy Stores, at any rate—than practically all other commodities are by comparison.

But, regardless of the price, you'll find whatever you buy here to be worthy. You'll find it strictly all wool, finished with the finest of linings and trimmings and most excellently tailored, and you'll find plenty here to choose from—the widest possible variety of styles and patterns and models and proportions, enabling us to please and suit and fit every man, no matter what his taste or build—and all real value for the money.

The Entire Line of Kuppenheimer Clothes and other good makes—all at most moderate prices

It may be a little early, but we wish to add that in Overcoats we have gathered together what is probably the greatest showing of fine garments in Novelties, Dress Coats, Ulsters and Auto Coats—both foreign and domestic—ever assembled under one roof in the United States.

BAY STATE GOLF LEADER FAVORITE IN PROVIDENCE GOLF MATCH

NEWTON FACES PERKINS IN FIRST FLIGHT TODAY

By ROBERT E. HARLOW

Providence, Sept. 16.—There are a lot of very fine golf courses in New England. No matter what city a golfer visits he is certain to find at least one excellent course and often two or three. Providence is not behind in the matter of accommodations for golfers.

This week-end the Rhode Island golfers are enjoying an open tournament at the Wannamoisett Country Club in Rumford, where there is a championship course, constructed by Donald Ross.

The first round of match play started today, and Massachusetts has F. C. Newton, its State team captain, in the hunt for the first division prize.

The course is 6,409 yards in length with a difficult par of 69. This has never been done, as the record is 71, held jointly by Daniel Fairchild and George Fotheringham, professional. There are plenty of well-trapped two-shot holes, four one-shot holes and one three-shot hole. There were seventy-two starters and four sixteens.

The draw and medal scores for the first sixteen:

FIRST FLIGHT.

F. M. Fairchild, Metacomet, 76, vs. A. Dolan, Wannamoisett, 85; F. C. Newton, Country Club, 81, vs. P. H. Perkins, Wannamoisett, 82; J. Lovell, Agawam, 87, vs. W. McDonald, Quinsigamond, 86; H. High Scores Rule on Winchester Links

The Winchester Country Club golf course must be a man's affair, judging by the way the scores ran in the qualifying round of the fall open tournament. Not a man could break 80, and a 91 was good enough to land one in the main match play division. Wet fairways and greens were blamed for the high cards.

Judging by his performance in leading the field of 102 players with a score of 81, Eddie Lowery is primed to begin just where he left off in the Winchester July open. He defeated H. B. Wood in the final on that occasion. Both are in the top half of the draw this time and if they meet at all it will be in the semi-finals tomorrow morning. Both must beat good ones, however, to get that far.

A peculiarity of the draw is that two Meadow Brook club pals, H. E. Robinson and A. P. Wade, meet in the very first round, which is exactly what they did in the July tournament. Winchester has four players in the main division—Wood, Bart Stephenson, H. T. Bond and A. L. Johnson. Stephenson is drawn to play A. R. Carwin of Tedesco, winner of the White Mountain championship in the opening round.

The pairings in the first two divisions:

FIRST FLIGHT.

A. L. Johnson vs. H. B. Wood.

KLOBY DENIES HE HAS QUIT RING GAME

Lawrence, Sept. 16.—Tommy "Kloby" Corcoran, N. E. champ, classed the story regarding his quitting the ring as "cheap talk," saying: "I am ready to enter the ring at any time when I can get terms which are suitable to me."

Kloby's refusal to meet Ed Shevlin Columbus Day or any day gave rise to the story.

BUGS BAER'S COLUMN

Americans take their fun seriously and their seriousness in fun. Baseball is supposed to be a sport for the tired business man, but it's really what makes the tired business man tired.

The first thing he pipes in the morning is the standing of the teams. If his home team looks a little curly, he hops back into bed and gets out on the other foot. While he is getting egg all over his chin at breakfast and shredded Biscuits down his collar, he is lamping yesterday's scores and wondering why Manager Wingdinkle didn't yank Lefty Gweefrupp, and put a left-handed shortstop in instead of a Republican pitcher.

Coming down town, he benches himself in favor of two old ladies, who look better standing up. On a short ride of fifteen minutes, he reads eight box scores, the batting averages of both leagues and figures the President's Cabinet would look better if their home uniforms were purple with green caps.

BASEBALL IN MORNING AND ALL DAY LONG.

He saves his lunch hour until 3:30 so that he can dangle in front of some score board and cheer the going that buzzes when some player socks a baseball out in Cleveland, Chicago or St. Louis. If Babe Ruth has smeared a home run, he is too happy to work, and if Babe hasn't, he can't work because he is too sad.

He keeps popping in and out of the office like a prairie dog watching a hawk. About five minutes to five he washes his hands to make the boss think they have ink on 'em, and gallops out of the office like he was going somewhere. He keeps tabs on the bulletin boards until all the returns are in, and then buys a paper that has a freshly cooked box score in it.

BASEBALL AT NIGHT AND AT THE MOVIES.

He uses the same subway and again beats the same two old ladies to the same seat, which gives the old gals a perfect standing average for the day.

He reads the baseball news in the subway, during supper and before bedtime. All work and no play makes Jake a dumbell. Which is one the baseball bug is the brightest bird in the works.

He knows more about baseball than his wife does about retrimming her last year's bonnet. At the movies he hoots the pictures of Lloyd Hughes, Santa Claus and Ponzi, but cheers himself curly over a close-up of Babe Ruth.

He goes home again, adds up the loss for the week, and wonders why he always draws Washington in the baseball pool.

After skimming the top off the cream of home brew, and snitching some sardines out of the ice box, he falls off to sleep and dreams he is the landlie on the water bucket during the world series.

MR. MALLORY DEFEATS PACIFIC COAST CHAMPION

Philadelphia, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, former champion, defeated Miss Helen Baker, Pacific Coast title holder, 4-6, 6-0, in the third round of the National women's tennis championship. Miss Marion Zinnstein and Edith Sigourney of Boston were also among the winners.

71 Classes in Boston Fair Horse Show

Exactly seventy-one classes will make up the program of the annual horse show of the Boston Fair, Inc., which opens at Readville on September 30 and runs for three days. The performances of the tanbark performers seem destined to stand out as the feature of the annual event, although there will be other attractions which will interest the horse-loving population of this section of New England.

It is estimated that the value of the purses in the horse show alone will amount to more than $10,000, while an equal amount will be expended in other attractions, including polo games, steeplechase races as well as dashes for thoroughbreds.

While entries do not close until tomorrow night, Manager Samuel J. Shaw already has received quite a number from out-of-town exhibitors as well as from prominent stables owned in Boston and its suburbs.

Following is a complete list of the classes which will be shown:

1—Novice harness ponies, 14 hands and under.
2—Harness ponies, new and action class, 14 hands and under.
3—Model harness ponies, not to exceed 14.2, to be shown in hand.
4—Driving competition for children under 14 years.
5—Champion pony class, post entries.
6—Conformation horses.
7—Saddlers, over 15.2 and not exceeding 15 hands.
8—Saddlers, over 15 and not exceeding 15.3.
9—Saddlers, over 15.2.
10—Saddlers over 14.2 and up to carrying 200 pounds.
11—Ladies' saddlers, over 14.2 and under 15.2.
12—Ladies' saddlers, 15.2 or over.
13—Pairs of saddlers, over 14.2, combined ownership acceptable.
14—Parkins Cup, for best park or road hack owned and to be shown by amateurs in Boston or its suburbs.
15—Fast trotting saddle horses, to be shown at trot, one-mile dash on track.
16—Novice harness horses, 15.2 or over.
17—Model harness saddle class, open to horses 14.2 and over that have been owned in this State thirty days previous to closing of entries.
18—Champion saddle class, for horses over 14.2 and under 15.2.

Buffalo

When it's your good luck to butt into Buffalo, go to that store on Ellicott Square where the dark haired clerk slips out Camels with both hands—plus a tank of talk on the side!

The thing that tickled me most was his sureness that I was after Camels! As soon as I had my coin on the counter and before I could say a word, he flashed me a package of Camels! When I asked him how he knew I wanted Camels he took a pull on his cough stock and soaked me with this:—"Can't tell you, old mayonnaise—I'm dressing!"

After he had waited on several other men who drew their Camels like I did, this salesman said:—"For a fact, most men here smoke Camels. They hit the popular taste! Camels have the right body and the right mildness and the right flavor. They're all right!"

And, Pete—he added this without a stutter:—"The more I see of the world and the more I learn about cigarettes, the more respect I have for Camels and Camels quality! I don't believe a better cigarette could be made at any price!" And, Pete—oh, Pete—listen to this gem: "And it's an odds on bet I'm a good judge. I've tried 'em all—and my taster is the jury box!"

If that isn't a swell line of Camel talk I'll sell my shoes! But, Peter, that salesman is right! It's my belief that no cigarette in the world can be favorably compared with Camels—they're so smooth and mellow and delightful!

I'm herewith slipping between the sheets, old book. So, you tell 'em the rest—you're full of knowledge!

Sincerely
Shorty

BIG FOUR IN DECIDING PENNANT BATTLES TODAY

LEAGUE LEADERS IN CLASH

Dodgers Open Series With Reds, While Yankees Meet White Sox

New York, Sept. 16—Much depends upon the results of series starting today in the two big leagues. A pennant may hinge upon the outcome of the three games scheduled between the Yankees and White Sox in Chicago, while the Reds and Dodgers will be putting on a three-game entertainment that may cut a decided figure, especially since the Giants and Dodgers are billed for five games in the near future.

Most interest will center on Chicago, for the Yankees are leading the American League by the bare margin of four points (each having gained slightly in beating the Athletics while New York and Chicago were competing).

In order to prove their claim to a pennant it will be necessary for the Yankees to win three games from the White Sox, for the Indians are quite likely to have at least speed with Washington and will open a series in Cleveland today.

No Letup in Sight for the Yankees

There can be no letup for the New Yorkers. Their season ends before Cleveland's and the first of the three between the pennant and the pursuing club now will run the risk of being beaten after they have finished their schedule of games.

The one bit of light seen in the White Sox for the Indians (last member last year's champions in a series) is Therefore, I honored the Yankees to put the skids on all the young Cleveland straight and then trust to the White Sox to lower the Indians' percentage.

The Indians maintain their lead in the National League standing, the Chicago Cubs clung with a fine spurt. Today they take on the world champion Reds in two games, a Sunday debut, those who want to see a game.

Meanwhile the Giants will be taking on real Braves, the latter should be going to their home grounds for most of the remaining games.

REAL WORK TOMORROW FOR HARVARD ELEVEN

Tackleless scrimmage will be replaced tomorrow on Soldiers Field with the first contact line up of the fall. The first week's coaching for the first who will represent the University of the varsity eleven in the opening game with Bates College next Saturday has left no doubt that he has the "goods" to win top notch honors, but many a member of the squad will be disillusioned before the week is out.

Hurry scrimmage is now in progress on Soldiers Field. Two elevens known as Teams A and B are battling drill.

Harvard will attempt to use its big rushline to advance Holy Cross and have the backs do the real work on fullbacks. This program will be abstracted from one used then by a forward pass formation which is to have a goodly place in the Harvard offence this fall.

Braves Get Pitcher

Pitcher Johnson of the Columbia (S. C.) Sally League team has been purchased by the Braves and is expected to report next week.

MATMEN OFF TO FLYING START

Ketonen-Sanders Match Features Big Wrestling Bill at Grand Tonight

The indoor wrestling season gets under way this evening at the Grand Opera House with an all-star show of four matches that promise fireworks. Tom Ketonen, the middle Finn, and Paddy Bear gives the word to start. Until the last pair of brawny wrestlers have been pitted to the mat, indicating whether or not Waino Ketonen is one of Cyclone Sanders' pet aversions for the kingpin of the middleweight division.

To add to the all-round excitement Promoter Tunney has arranged two other matches, and in at least one of these the winner will get after the winner of the Ketonen-Sanders battle. This is the clash between Tom Ajax of California, and Joe Rice of Atlanta, Ga., which looks like a great match, judging by Rice's record. Ajax is known to be about as good as they make wrestlers in his class.

Cyclone Rose, fresh from his decisive victory over Bernhoft Hanson the Iron Man, and wrestling with all his old time skill and power takes on Monty Dagmer, a newcomer here. In the third number of the big program all matches go to a finish.

MAN O' WAR TO RACE IN MARYLAND HANDICAP

New York, Sept. 16—Trainer Louis Feustel announces that Man O' War would be shipped to Havre De Grace to start in the Potomac handicap there saturday. He gave the big son of Fair Play a fast work early today in this handicap, which is a test of a mile and a sixteenth. Man O' War has been assigned 138 pounds, and he is required to give Paul Jones, the Kentucky Derby winner, twenty-five pounds, John P. Grier is in receipt of twenty-five pounds, while Wildair and Gladiator each receive thirty two pounds and Dr. Clark thirty-three. The others all get down much lighter, so that a good idea is had of the Lexingtonian's estimate of where Ruth's great colt stands.

GARDINI THROWS CHEVALIER TWICE

Portland, Me., Sept. 16—Renato Gardini threw Gaston Chevalier two straight falls in the mat bout here. The first fall came after a flying mare in 53 minutes and the second was gained with a body scissors and double wrist lock after six minutes of wrestling.

ST. JOHN'S AND BENNETTS CLASH IN RUBBER GAME

The St. John's M. of C. team of East Cambridge and the Bennett A. A. of Somerville will meet in the concluding game of a three-game series at Thorndike Field, Cambridge, next Sunday afternoon. Both have won a game, Davidson will pitch for the University City outfit and will be opposed by Weafer.

STECKER AND ZBYSZKO EVEN AFTER TWO HOURS

Montreal, Sept. 16—Joe Stecker, world's heavyweight champion wrestler, and Wladek Zbyszko struggled for two hours without either man scoring a fall.

BABE'S TWO HOMERS FAIL TO STAVE OFF DEFEAT

Toledo O., Sept. 16—Ruth's two home runs by Babe Ruth could not save the Yankees who went down to defeat, 3 to 7, before Toledo. The local players hit Ferguson and Byrd hard.

BRITISH GOLFERS LOSE TO BRADY AND SARGEANT

Columbus, O., Sept. 16—Harry Vardon and Ted Ray, the British golf professionals, were beaten, 2 and 1, by Mike Brady of Detroit and George Sargeant, the local professional.

The Three Champions

ABOVE are pictures of the three great champions of today that the present generation thinks will always represent the supreme in prowess in their respective fields.

But is that?

Read Damon Runyon's verse:

By Damon Runyon.

Salvator, Sullivan and Kelly, the Great,
Monarch of horses and kings of men.
Lo, it was said of them long ago:
"Never we'll see their like again!"

Roamer, and Willard, and Tyrus Cobb,
They were the rulers of yesterday—
"Never we'll see their like again!"
Lo, and their glory has passed away!

Ruth, and Dempsey, and Man o' War—
"Never we'll see their like again!"
Hark! That's the cheer from the Future's door
For another horse and other men!

Bout With Leonard for Lawrence Winner

By JACK CONWAY

The winner of the ten round bout between Lew Tendler and Frankie Callahan, which will be staged at Johnny Cuddy's open air arena at Lawrence Saturday afternoon, will probably be signed to clash with Benny Leonard in Madison Square Garden, New York, the latter part of next month.

Tex Rickard, who is staging the matches in the Garden, has wired his New England representative to be at the ringside at Lawrence prepared to submit an offer for a Leonard bout to the victor of the Tendler-Callahan affair.

Rickard originally planned to put on a match between Leonard and Eddie Fitzsimmons. This taste was then called off on the ground that Fitzsimmons required more time in which to train. Fitzsimmons although a high-class fighter, would not have as good a chance against the champion as either Tendler or Callahan.

The tussle will be for the 133-pound championship of the world. The rival ring warriors are both able to make this notch with ease.

Callahan Hitting Hard in Training Bouts

Callahan is busy at North Reading preparing for the contest. He declares he is in the best condition of his career. Frankie is punching hard with his right and is making life mighty uncomfortable even for the big fellows who are boxing with him daily. When Callahan pops his right on the chin of his sparring partner, the latter usually begins thinking of Ponzi notes and such things.

Callahan's ambition in life just now is to get a return meeting with Leonard. He defeated the champion before the latter won the title, but has been unable to get him into a ring since. Rickard's plan to match Leonard with the winner of Saturday's battle has given Callahan new interest in things pugilistic.

Tony Palosola was much amused at Eddie Shevlin's welterweight championship claims. "Paul Doyle is the real welterweight champion of New England," declared Palosola. "And Doyle's claim is not contingent on Kloby's keeping out of the ring either. Doyle is the only so-called welterweight in New England who can do 145 pounds ringside. He could reduce to as low as 142 pounds ringside if necessary.

"When did Shevlin last make 145 pounds ringside? The same goes for Nate Siegal. Shevlin was knocked out by Kirby, while Doyle trimmed the champion (though it didn't get the decision). The Troy scrapper won, and that's all I have to say about Shevlin's claim to the welterweight championship. It's time for somebody to put on another test."

Shaver O'Brien Is to Box Only Lightweights

Shaver O'Brien, sturdy South Boston ring warrior, is ready for action again. The local boy is capable of defeating a whole lot of alleged title chasers. O'Brien is a lightweight, has a draw to his credit with Nate Siegal. Shaver's big trouble in the past has been in getting matches with boys of his own weight. He has often given away as many as fifteen pounds to ring foes, but rather than remain idle in future Goodwin O'Brien is minus over a restrict the offers of his prodigy to contests with legitimate 135-pounders.

Martin Brothers Both Ready for Montreal

Alex McLean, manager of Terry Martin, came to bat today with the announcement that he is still waiting to hear from Young Montreal. Apparently Montreal is afraid to enter a ring with Martin again, declared McLean. "Montreal knows better than anybody else that Terry is his master. Of course we don't want Montreal to die from fright so will let him meet Harry Martin instead of Terry. Harry is boxing good enough today to trounce Montreal."

BRENNAN WARNS AGAINST BRITISH

Wants Battle of Bunker Hill Reproduced at Pilgrim Tercentenary Exposition

Warning them against the danger of an international exposition, which would probably be converted into a propaganda for Great Britain, former Senator James H. Brennan of Charlestown urged the commissioners who are considering the advisability of holding an exposition as a feature of the Pilgrim Tercentenary celebration to hold an interstate exposition which will reproduce the battles of Lexington and Bunker Hill and engender the American spirit "that will be necessary to defend us in the next war."

England, the international murderer of the world," said Mr. Brennan, "is at our front door, attempting to choke us and destroy our national spirit with its vicious propaganda, while Japan is at the back door with the most ambitious naval program in the history of the world.

JAPAN SPENDING MILLIONS.

"One hundred and twenty-five submarines and fourteen battleships at a cost of $40,000,000 apiece, are being built by Japan for the purpose of acquiring new territory. Everybody knows that England and Japan have entered an offensive and defensive alliance and one empire is attempting to stifle the American conscience while the other is preparing to throw its military and naval force against us when we are beaten into moral submission by the former's propaganda.

"We have already suffered the spectacle of the Sulgrave Institute propagandists, at the first 'celebration' of the founding of America, telling us that those of English derivation are superior to the more than 60 per cent. of foreign extraction who make up our great State.

"What we want is an interstate, an American exposition, which will keep alive the spirit of Lexington and Bunker Hill. Above all, we do not want an international exposition for the benefit of the money hounds who would betray America to any foreign power."

FITZ SCORES CHAMBER.

The Boston Chamber of Commerce was characterized as "dormant and dead," "moribund" and "absolutely without interest in the commercial crisis" which confronts Boston today by former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, in a speech in favor of holding an industrial and commercial exposition in Boston as a means of developing the foreign trade of Boston and New England and building up the port of Boston. He charged the Chamber of Commerce officials with lack of interest.

Miss H. Desmarais Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples

"My trouble started with pimples and skin irritation. My face and neck were affected and the pimples were hard and red. They itched and burned, causing me to scratch, which pained me very much, especially when washing. They also caused disfigurement for the time.

"I used many remedies without any apparent effect until I started using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I felt relieved after using them for a week, and when I had used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and about half a box of Cuticura Ointment the pimples had disappeared. I was healed." (Signed) Miss Hedwige Desmarais, 324 Park St., Gardner, Mass., Feb. 19, 1920.

Girls, Don't Wash Your Face

Use Linka cold cream instead (you have never used anything like it). Just try it once, and you will never be without it. Linka cold cream Soap contains a substance to make the skin rough, and dries and cleanses the skin as those roughs as does no other soap. It makes this test: Wash your face with any soap and water. Dry and then apply Linka cold cream, massage it well into the pores. Wipe off the superfluous cream with a soft white cloth and examine it and see how much dirt has accumulated, therein. Linka cold cream softens or beautifies the skin. For blackheads, Linka Cream Soap. If there is nothing like it; it's the after shaving. Just compare Linka cold cream with any other you have ever used, and you will need no further argument to convince you that it's the best. Linka is not sold in soda fountains nor drug stores. Try it tonight. You will be delighted. At toilet counters everywhere. Advertisement.

RAILS RESUME THEIR CLIMB

Oils, Steels, Equipment and Motors All Participate in the Morning Advance

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, prices being close to the highest morning level. This was true in rails, which resumed their climb this morning. Among those to sell at their highest for this year were Baltimore and Ohio, Erie common and Western Pacific common. Steels, oils, equipments and motors participated in the rise.

The market was more active than for some time, first hour transactions approximating 200,000 shares. Call money opened at 7 per cent. Foreign exchange had a better tone, opening quotations being: Demand sterling $3.49¾, up 1¼ cents; francs $.0654, up $.0004; lire $.0426, off $.0001; marks $.0142, off .0002.

WENT UP AT OUTSET.

Prices went up at the outset, gains being in two to one majority then and the latter ratio existed generally. Oils and rails were foremost at the opening, but steels soon took a leading part. At the first hour there was regular and rather weak. Early gains ranged from fractions to four points, with Atlantic Gulf showing the latter showing. It was a first hour feature. Rail gains were conspicuous, Chesapeake & Ohio sold at a new 1920 high. Vanadium and Republic were steel leaders. There was much interest in motors than has been usual of late and the strongest were Maxwell Motor, Studebaker, Packard, Arroe and Chandler. A number of low-priced oils were in evidence, including Mid-dle States and Transcontinental. Copers were dull but firm. Pan American recovered its dividend on its first transaction. Sumatra and Retail Stores were strong in the Johnson group. Denver & Rio Grande preferred was higher and the common issue lower.

HOLDING ON TO CASH.

There is a disposition on the part of corporations to hold tightly to cash and to keep resources as liquid as possible. This is indicated by dividend omissions by concerns which have been big earners of recent years, but are uncertain about the future. While talk is of an encouraging nature, the fact remains that most manufacturing and mercantile concerns expect trade contraction and are doubtful about doing as much business this Winter as last. It is believed in some authoritative quarters commodity prices are going much lower and producers of all kinds of goods are in a quandary as to the extent of reduction they must make to get the public back as buyers. A reduction of the sort they are looking for is coming. It is long overdue. Less is heard about this country finding a foreign market for most of its surplus products. There is undiminished demand in Europe, but prospective buyers there cannot readily finance purchases in America, especially with exchange rates around the present level.

PRICES STEADY IN BOSTON

Local List is Irregular at Opening and Later; Curb List Is Strong

Irregularity characterized the Boston list when the exchange opened, gains and losses being about evenly balanced. It did not alter much in this respect during the morning. Early trading was of fair volume and of average breadth. Mexican Investment and Carson Hill were leaders. Telephone was reduced, the former being up 2⅛ in the second hour and the latter a fraction. Only a few coppers were traded in, but they ruled higher. Packing issues were quiet and had a heavy tone. Gray & Davis sold at a new low for the year on its first transaction, 9. Inland Steel common went up two points on a few sales, while Atlantic Telephone sold at 146. Several United Fruit was strong, advancing almost four points up in the first hour. It was not as high in the second.

Edison and Allouez receded a point or more, while small losses were sustained by Woolen preferred, Eastern Manufacturing, Central Leather, Libby, Swift & Co., Highearl and Gray & Davis.

CURB WAS STRONG.

The Curb was strong at the start and quite active. Leaders were Arizona Top, Boston & Montana and Inspiration. Among those to open higher were Tip Top, Denbigh, Little Kingdom, Manhattan, Mutual, Silver Dome, Tonopah and Silver Reed. Weak ones were Imperial and Silver Reed.

At the end of an hour Tip Top was up 2 cents at 35 cents, Arizona Top 3 cents at 8 cents, Crystal 2 cents at 40 cents, Denbigh 1 cent at 18 cents, Little Kingdom 1 cent at 4⅛ cents and Republic Navigation up at 11¾. Boston & Montana was off 4 cents at 80 cents and Mutual 1 cent at 44 cents.

GERMANS FIGHT BANKRUPTCY

Claim Declaration Would Make Millions Radical and Break Social System

Berlin, Sept. 16.—The collapse of German exchange occasioned some misgivings yesterday in financial circles and some alarm to the general public. The dollar brought sixty marks.

There is loose talk, not to be taken seriously, about a possible declaration of national bankruptcy. In contradiction to it a report, compiled by Germany's leading financiers and published by the government, clearly indicates the folly of such a course.

"A declaration of bankruptcy by the German government," says the report, "would mean a collapse of the entire social system. Millions of small holders of war loan stock, who are now on the side of law and order, would go over to the extremist if their savings were wiped out."

The report, however, describes Germany's financial situation as dangerous in the extreme. It is mentioned that the loss of the state railways during 1920 cannot, at the present rate of exchange, be less than 250 million marks. The post office will have a deficit of nearly 200,000,000.

The evasion of taxation and the flight of capital continue in spite of all precautions. The experts declare that Germany can pay her indemnities only if the entente helps her to her feet financially and industrially.

Joplin Ore Prices

Joplin, Mo., reports there was an unexpected activity in zinc ore prices. Lead ores dropped $10 a ton, registering but $100 a ton for 60 per cent lead against $110 and $112 the previous week, while zinc blende ores dropped from $50 to $45 for the high grades, and from $47.50 to $45.50 for second grades.

Still Buying Silver

The United States Treasury is still buying silver for the mints, and its latest purchases total 410,000 ounces, bringing the aggregate of its operations under the Pittman act up to 12,502,247 ounces.

Corporation Earnings

It is expected the General Electric gross for 1920 will total $275,000,000, as compared with $230,979,983 in 1919 and $194,262,290 in 1918. Unfilled shipments this year exceed $100,000,000.

Loft, Inc., reports for the first half of this year, after charges and Federal taxes of $706,704, which is equivalent to $1.06 a share on 500,000 shares without par value.

For the year ended with June the Cresent Corp. Co. reports net after charges and Federal taxes of $647,042, equal to $14.90 a share on 43,000 shares, against $207,256, or $4.80 a share, in the previous year.

The Chicago Packing & Provision Co. for the year ended Nov. 2, 1919, reports net earnings of $1,000,000. The management is the largest ever ended Nov. 2, 1919, was equal to $46.61 per share, against dividend requirements of $7 per annum.

Wall Street Briefs

Income to the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company for the year to date has averaged $4,095,000 in the last eight years. It was $4,089,682 in 1919. Capital stock is $80,000,000 and bonds $120,000,000. Earning power is $5,000,000 a year. Value of the coal property, equal to more than the present capitalization. Value of railroad if approved by stockholders the Consolidated Gas Co. will declare a 100 per cent common stock dividend. A special meeting will be held soon to amend the present charter of common stock from 90,000 to 180,000 shares.

It is reported that a Southwestern Miami well in Young county, Texas, is on a gusher of 5,000 barrels per day from a depth of 3,062 feet. Six Parish Packing Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 1¾, payable Oct. 20 to stock of record Sept. 30.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the New York Central to issue $25,000,000 of 6 per cent collateral trust bonds and $25,000,000 refunding and improvement mortgage bonds.

American Woolen stockholders voted on increasing the non-voting common from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. It is not intended to offer any of this additional stock at this time.

The Mexican subsidiary of the Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies steamship lines, reports loss of oil in May $22,289 in June $14,998 in July and approximately 1,000,000 in August, a total of 2,021,000 barrels for first four months of operations.

The Answer to the Question

Why Are Oil Stocks Selling So Low Today?

SPURNS MOTHER FOR AUNT

Owes Loyalty to Foster Parents, Own Only a Relative, Girl Tells Court

New York, Sept. 16.—Mother by blood or mother by kindness—which is the natural tie, ignored through the years, more potent than one improvised by affection and gratitude?

This is the question that Justice Squires was called upon to decide in the Brooklyn Supreme Court when Mrs. Mary Immordino, a dressmaker, asked that her fifteen-year-old daughter be returned to her from the house of the girl's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Garratt.

DENIED DAUGHTER.

She told a pathetic story of having entrusted Josephine to the Garratts ten years ago when, left a widow with five children to support, she first opened her dressmaking shop.

When she became prosperous she attempted to bring her beautiful eldest daughter home, but she was denied.

Josephine took the witness stand. She said:

"My uncle and aunt, who are also my god-parents, have done everything for me. If I returned to my mother I would break my aunt's heart. It is to her that I owe loyalty now; my mother is only a relative."

APATHETIC WHEN KISSED.

Justice Squire's reminder of "Honor thy father and thy mother" sentiment was unavailing. Josephine submitted without protest when her mother rose from her seat and embracing the girl, sobbed out her love. She was apathetic when her mother would kiss her, although still apathetic, when Mrs. Immordino fainted afterward.

The court ordered her to return to the Garritt home for thirty days. At the end of that time, if the girl has no filial feeling for her mother, she will be allowed to remain with her foster parents.

BANK CLEARINGS ARE MUCH LESS IN VOLUME

Bank clearings have decreased in volume, and this is regarded as a sign that business is contracting to some extent. The decrease in July and August was 1 per cent, following increase for each of the previous six months. The total of $44,353,613 for the whole country was the smallest since February and for many months since.

According to a financial publication clearings made it clear that the combination of feverish industrial activity at extremely high commodity prices no longer exists. Throughout last year and up to the early spring of 1920 record-breaking check clearances attested country wide prosperity and inflation, huge foreign commerce, overtime and fat pay envelopes with consequent reckless spending, and active speculation in securities and commodities."

Bermuda Booming as "Wet" Resort

Washington, Sept. 16.—Bermuda is seeking to rival Cuba as a "wet" haven for American tourists, according to accounts reaching the Department of Commerce.

Investments involving hundreds of thousands of dollars are being made in new hotels and an advertising campaign on a most extensive scale is planned. The chief concern engaged in building hotels is the Bermuda Development Company, which has secured five hundred acres of land near St. Georges.

CHURCHMEN TO CONVENE HERE

Congress of Liberal Christians Opens Sessions in Boston October 3

Over five hundred delegates are expected to attend the tercentenary meeting of the International Congress of Liberal Christians, which will open its four days' session in this city October 3.

The meetings will be held in Unity House, Park square, with the exception of the morning session of October 5, which will take place in the First Parish Church, Plymouth, with addresses in the afternoon by Professor B. D. Eerdmans of Leyden, Holland, and Miss E. R. Lee of Glasgow, Scotland.

NOTED SPEAKERS.

Among the speakers who will address the congress are Professor A. C. McGiffert of the Union Theological Seminary, New York and Professor Kirsopp Lake of Harvard Divinity School, who will speak on "The Churches and the Tasks of a Prophetic Era," on the evening of October 5 in Arlington Street Church.

An international love feast of all the Christian denominations will be held in Unity House October 6, with addresses by the Rev. F. W. Perkins of Lynn, Rabbi David Philipson of Cincinnati and Doremus Scudder, M. D., of Boston.

The delegates from Japan and India will speak on the afternoon of Oct. 4, when addresses on the free churches of the Orient will be given by Principal R. C. Maitra of Calcutta; Professor D. B. Jayatilaka, of Columbo and the Rev. Dr. Macauley, of Tokio.

ADDRESSES BY WOMEN.

The international work of women in the churches will take the attention of the delegates on the last day's session of the Congress, with Miss W. Blake Odgers, Miss Hilda Hargrove, both of London; Miss B. R. Lee, of Wales and Madame Paul Loyson, of Paris, as the principal speakers.

The concluding session will be a mass meeting in the evening at Symphony Hall, when the League of Nations will be discussed by the Rev. T. R. Williams, of Brighton, England, and the Rev. Dr. William L. Sullivan, of New York

MILLION ON WAY FROM POLAND

Encamped Near Danzig Awaiting Transportation Here, According to Caminetti

Washington, Sept. 16.—"Nearly a million Polish Jews are encamped in the general neighborhood of Danzig awaiting transportation to America," Andrew Caminetti, commissioner-general of immigration, said today.

"Around 4,000 immigrants, mostly Polish Jews and Italians, arrived at Ellis Island every day last week," he continued, and added:

"We must have boards of control who will keep an eye on the immigrant after his arrival and observe whether or not he presents the right qualities for citizenship. This method is followed by all other progressive foreign countries. We also need strict control which can check undesirable or overwhelming immigration at the source before it descends upon Ellis Island."

Louis Post, Assistant Secretary of Labor, sent a cablegram to Mrs. Philip N. Moore, president of the International Council of Women, now in session at Christiania, Norway, congratulating the council upon the aid it has rendered the Bureau of Immigration in cases involving the deportation of women.

GINNING REPORT SHOWS COTTON CROP IS LATE

Weather has been unfavorable to cotton, except in restricted areas, since the last official report, and the first ginning statement shows how late the crop is. Out of 344,019 bales ginned to Sept. 1 only 25,232 were from outside of Texas. The eastern belt ginned about 22,000 bales, against over 100,000 a year ago, when one of the greatest returns in history was made. Returns of the four principal States of the eastern belt, which together produce half the crop, compare in bales:

	1920	1919	1918	1917
Alabama	1,335	2,576	33,491	18,670
Georgia	3,277	11,515	149,000	76,000
Mississippi	827	1,611	33,911	7,832
South Carolina	820	34,186	17,901	3,000
Total	18,831	100,888	242,003	184,993

Road Sale Not Ordered

It was stated yesterday by Attorney George W. Murray of New York that the report that the United States District Court had ordered a sale of the Boston & Maine Railroad to satisfy a judgment of $36,515,028 in favor of the Equitable Trust Co. is erroneous. The sale question will not be decided until about 22,000 bales, against over 100,000 a year ago, when one of the greatest returns in history was made. Returns of the four principal States of the eastern belt, which together produce half the crop, compare in bales:

Raw Silk Stocks Decrease

During August stocks of raw silk held in New York decreased 1,135 bales, aggregating 61,130 bales on September 1, as compared with 52,265 on August 1.

WOMEN'S SUITS ARE CHEAPER

Many Varieties in Boston Stores at Prices to Meet All Pocketbooks

The Boston woman, getting her bearings this Fashion Week, notes, among other things, the new materials. Some of these are absolutely new this season, others have been used to some extent a season ago. Among the popular new materials are Evora-Superior, Fortuna, Marvella, Chamcrettine and English Herring Bone.

One thing stands out with precision for the shopping women this Fall. That is that no longer is it beyond the reach of the averagely rich woman to buy a suit or wrap. Whereas, last year, no decent suit could be had for much less than a hundred dollars, this season there are numberless suits, at less than fifty, which any woman would be pleased to have.

SUITS AT LOW PRICES.

A clever Boston buyer of a store whose main entrances are on Summer street, gleefully displayed her lower priced suits. "I had some difficult looking about to do in New York, said she, "before I found these treasures. But just see if you don't agree with me that they are bargains." She then led the way to the racks where good lined suits of Shirick Jersey, a mixed cloth, were on sale for $25. Seems impossible, doesn't it—a good winter Jersey for $25? But it is not.

There is one part of a woman's wardrobe which she should never let go. It should be cared for as fast as the old one becomes worn. That is a taffeta dress, of dark blue. And if it is the miss who is in need of such a dress this fall, she will find, in this shop, this Fashion Week, a simple a dress and as dainty as she could wish, for just $22.50. It is of good quality taffeta, the skirt with a touch of bustle, and light blue ruffles of organdie at the waist—a charming dress.

The burden of being a stout woman is not so great as it was, now that the shops have taken up the work of designing especially for the larger woman. And certainly no more charming styles are shown, not even for the 16 year old miss, than are shown this Fashion Week in the large woman. As a buyer explained, "we strive for dignity in the lines for the quieter colors, for the graciousness and poise of the matron, as she would exemplify them in her clothes. These we combine with materials as alluring as the prices can purchase. And our gowns for stout women range in price from $18 into the hundreds."

VELVET HATS POPULAR.

But, speaking of gowns for stout women, probably two seen in a large department store, where reasonable prices are made an object in the department, could not be equalled in any other city. One was a simple gown, of gracious lines, of dark blue satin; the other was a long lined dark blue serge. The price of both was less than $25. They were bargains indeed.

The waterfowl on the fall hat are of especial interest just now. These are, in so many hats, Panne velvet. Large ones are Fashion's favorite. Turbans are popular. At one shop a good feather turban for seven dollars, in navy blue, black, tan or brown, was shown. A duvetyn hat has the advantage, for some women, of exactly matching the gown. Just buy a bit extra when you are choosing materials for your winter dress, and give this extra to milliner. She will fashion you a duvetyn hat.

The autumn women's dress hat features the short vamp, high-top boots, with Louis heels. These are particularly good for women with feet a bit large, as they lend the illusion of small size. Two dollars at one shop buys excellent brown kidskin shoes, or black, either. Brown or black calfskin come just one dollar more.

STENCILLED DOILIES.

The woman who has small children, and whose laundry is over large, will find one economy in the art department of a large Washington street store, which she will be glad to buy. This is a set of doilies for the footplaces. Six of these, made of cotton, so treated that they look like stenciled linen, and, best of all, easy for young family, they wash off after lunch and save laundry. The price of the set is $1.35. It may be bought in a variety of designs.

HEIRESS WILL BECOME NUN

Philadelphia Girl Would End "Crazy Quilt" Career in Jamaica Convent

New York, Sept. 16.—Another patch of color was sewed into the "crazy-quilt" career of Miss Mariano H. Wood, daughter of Edward Randolph Wood, first vice-president of the Philadelphia Board of Trade, with her sailing for Kingston, Jamaica, where she plans to undergo the novitiate to become a Sister of Mercy in Albert Convent.

The career of Miss Wood is a patchwork of exciting change and adventure. Miss Wood started life blithely as a Philadelphia society debutante in Philadelphia society. Wearying of the butterfly existence she became obtained work as a student nurse, only to be quickly discharged.

Her entrance into a theatrical stock company resulted in the failure of the company while it was on the road. She found herself stranded in Canada. She attempted to enter the sisterhood in Philadelphia, but failed.

Not long after she was placed in an asylum, the result of a conspiracy, she says, and escaped. She roamed the country many months, working at every type of labor, sleeping in the open, associating with all kinds of people.

Maine Women Voters Line Up Against League

What a complete disaster the League of Nations has suffered at the hands of the voters of Maine.

It is particularly significant that the women have aligned themselves on the first test against the league. If any evidence is needed of the public disapproval of this scheme to entrap America into the wars and intrigues and devilments of the old world, it is the attitude of the women of Maine at the election. The League of Nations was the issue.

The Wilsonians and Coxites sent all their big guns into the Maine campaign. The opponents of the league replied with some of their heaviest artillery. Up and down the State the battle raged over the league, in halls and county affairs, by means of old-fashioned rallies and in joint debates. School and church and pulpit joined in the discussion. The result was the greatest disaster which has overtaken the Democratic party, the advocates of the League of Nations, in the State of Maine since the Civil War.

In New Hampshire, where the pro-league candidate for senator relied upon the votes of women, he found himself without his host. Thus, the League of Nations has won its fight on the most unfavorable ground and the league has been condemned by those most disposed to accept anything purporting to be like the League of Nations. If the women could have found even slight evidence that the League of Nations had merely a tendency toward the promotion of peace as a class the women sentimentally would have been impelled to give it a trial. But the disaster which has overtaken the league lies in the fact that with those most disposed to take peace at any price the league has been condemned as a scheme which would not even tend to promote peace.

The other classes of voters, while giving the question of peace great weight, will also consider the price we have to pay for peace. When it is considered that we have to submit ourselves to the evils which beset the old world and submit the bodies of our youth to wars of the old world without even the prospect that the league, which would subject us to these great evils, will even tend to promote peace, the knockout blows which the people of all parties in Maine and the Democrats of Georgia in the last few days have dealt it, are easy to understand.

Mr. Lomasney and His Work for Democracy

Full many a year past the enemies of Martin M. Lomasney have made his numerous political wakes exuberant and legions of his enemies have followed his coffin to the political grave with a most unfunereal joy only to find that the ghost had walked.

In American politics it is a habit of politicians and newspapers, if they do not like a man, to proclaim, when he meets defeat, that he is dead. As if any man who fought at all could avoid meeting frequent defeats.

The man that Kipling wanted his son to be was the man who could "meet with triumph and disaster and treat those two impostors just the same." We assume that no one can deny Mr. Lomasney's capacity in this respect.

Mr. Lomasney has many faults. Who has not? He is a boss in small things. But though it may astonish a great many people to be told so, yet it is absolutely true that he maintains his leadership in small politics by being faithful to the fundamentals of democracy. Examine his record in the Legislature, which is longer and fuller than that of any of his enemies, and then compare it with the records of his enemies. Read the circulars which he sends to his people on the eve of election. Read particularly his discussions of democratic principles and the vote he urges the people to give on questions of policy submitted to them from time to time. We have read these circulars for a number of years and we do not recall one in which Mr. Lomasney takes the side that the typical boss is supposed to take.

But there are bad bosses and there are bosses not so bad. Mr. Lomasney does not betray fundamental principles. Few men rendered greater service to the Commonwealth at any time in our history than he rendered in the Constitutional Convention.

Moreover, for any matters which he considers serious, he is willing to make any kind of a sacrifice. An eminently practical man who understands the cost of seeming to be absurd and impracticable and of inviting defeat, he alone among those who served the cause of Ireland with their lips demanded pledges of the Democratic party at St. Louis four years ago and withstood the jeers of the convention for his apparently impracticable fortitude. He was not a delegate to the Democratic convention at San Francisco, but when a representative of the American saw how things were going for the cause of Ireland in the Republican convention at Chicago by default, he wired Mr. Lomasney to go to San Francisco. Mr. Lomasney responded.

Ask Mr. De Valera about Lomasney's work there. Let any doubting Thomas who wants to see Lomasney dead ask Mr. De Valera what his idea of the value of Martin M. Lomasney is to the cause of little peoples who want to be free from their big oppressors.

The American does not blame Congressman Tague for exulting over Mr. Lomasney's defeat. It is a perfectly natural thing for Mr. Tague to do. Nor does the American blame him for predicting that Mr. Lomasney has received his death blow, the wish being the father of the thought and the wish being natural too. The fact that Mr. Lomasney foresaw at the declaration of war the situation as it has now developed does not make Mr. Tague guilty for not having seen it as clearly as Mr. Lomasney did, and besides we cannot ask him for exceptional heroism. Mr. Tague did as nearly all the rest of them did in Congress. The nation was excited and the situation was delicate and there are few men with the courage of La Follette and Jeanette Rankin. Not being as emotionally surcharged with the question of Irish liberty as Mr. Lomasney FOR YEARS has been, we never could see Mr. Tague's conduct in quite the light Mr. Lomasney sees it. If we had we should not have hesitated to have opposed Mr. Tague.

But on the question of rejoicing over the death of Mr. Lomasney—he will have to be a different kind of a boss before we do it.

More Truth Than Poetry

My Favorite Statesman

By S. E. KISER

WE never have the proper kind
Of candidates named for election;
I have a certain man in mind
Who'd serve the country to perfection.
He wouldn't let himself be swayed
By selfish cliques or combinations,
Nor would he be at all afraid
Of bosses perched in lofty stations.

HE wouldn't care a whoop about
The corridor in Eastern Prussia;
With him to guide us we'd keep out
Of Merry England's rows with Russia.
Our own American affairs
Would occupy his whole attention;
He'd feed "old haches" to the bears
And give to each old maid a pension.

WITH him to rule in Washington
All waste and graft would soon be ended,
And all the profiteers would run,
No longer favored or defended.
The labor vote and farmer vote
Would never give him cause to worry;
The Public, long the patient goat,
Would be considered in a hurry.

OUR coal and clothes and food and rent
Would drop like apples that have ripened;
Each man whose salary's quickly spent
I'd gladden with a trebled stipend.
Worth should no longer lag behind,
I'd put an end to vain pretension—
Too bad the man I have in mind
Was overlooked by each convention.

Are Blondes the Most Loving?

MLLE. MAYAN, "the most beautiful brunette in France," says that "a brunette holds out her soul to the man she loves; a blonde holds out to him her dressmakers' bills."

Mrs. Edwin Demarest Moores, wife of the Los Angeles millionaire and "America's most beautiful blonde," says that "a blonde knows how to fight for the man she loves; a brunette can only cry for him."

Professor W. B. Mooney, head of the Extension Department of Colorado University, who has made a study of comparisons, has come to the conclusion that "the brunette, with her concave or convex face, wants only to be permitted to love the man of her choice, and she will attach herself to him solely."

HE'S A chauffeur.
AND I know him.
AND HE works.
FOR A rich man.
WITH A limousine.
AND TWO extra tires.
AND YESTERDAY,
I WAS standing.
ON A corner.
LYING IN wait.
FOR A bus.
AND THE chauffeur.
CAME ALONG.
WITH THE limousine.
AND STOPPED.
AND SAID to me.
"WHERE AWAY?"
AND I told him.
AND HE said.
"IT'S ON my way.
"CLIMB IN."
AND I did.
AND I LAID back.
IN THE rich cushions.
AND TRIED my best.
TO BE dignified.
AND KEEP my seat.
WHENEVER IT happened.
WE HIT a bump.
AND DOWN town.

THE CHAUFFEUR said.
"JUST WAIT a minute.
"I'M GOING in here.
"I'LL BE right out."
AND I did.
AND WHILE I waited.
THERE CAME a man.
AND HE seemed surprised.
AND STOPPED.
AND OPENED the door.
OF THE limousine.
AND SAID,
"WHERE'S THE driver?"
AND I told him.
AND HE said.
"I'M SORRY.
BUT IT'S my car."
AND I said.
"YOU OUGHT to be glad.
"IT'S A swell car.
"I'LL GET out."
AND I did.
AND WENT on.
TO WHERE I was going.
AND, ANYWAY.
ALL THE time.
I HAD a feeling.
I WAS at a party.
WHERE I hadn't been asked.

I THANK you.

Causes of Poor Showing by Our Olympic Athletes

Return of Half a Hundred Men in Hold of Army Transport Typical Example of Committee's Care for the Contestants Throughout

By Charles E. Parker,

The American's Correspondent at the Seventh Olympiad

AMERICAN Olympic athletes will tell you that the circumstances surrounding the return, recently, of some forty or fifty of their number on the army transport Sherman serve as a typical example of the American Olympic committee's consideration of the men.

News stories already have been published stating how the athletes, despite protests of previous conditions and demands for better accommodations on the return journey, came back once again in the hold of an army transport with the bodies of dead soldiers sharing the adjoining section.

And this, notwithstanding the desire of the transport's officers—even complete arrangements on the latter's part—to give the athletes first cabin accommodations.

Held First Cabins

Arthur Roth, the Roxbury Marathoner, and one of the athletes concerned, states that those in charge of the transport, in spite of an unprecedented demand for such quarters on the part of returning army officers and War Department employes, arranged to hold first cabin accommodations for such athletes as cared to return on the ship; that shortly after the ship arrived at Antwerp her officers sent one, then another, and then a third communication to the American Olympic Committee or to Matt Halpin, manager of the team, stating the situation and asking the number of athletes to be expected; and that, as the sailing date approached, with no word from the committee or the manager the ship's officers felt they could hold open the offer no longer and turned over the cabins to the Army and War Department officials.

According to Roth, it was not until some time later—almost immediately before the Sherman got underway—that its officers received any word from the committee. This came in the form of Matt Halpin parading the forty or fifty men to the ship and demanding accommodations for them. The only quarters then available was the hold in which they traveled homeward.

The athletes are rather interested in what the committee will have to say as regards this incident as well as regards all other issues involved in our recent Olympic experience. Several of their number have frankly stated they expect a series of "buck passing" on the part of the committee, with the army named as accountable for the transportation conditions and possibly the Belgian Olympic Committee and the track officials at the Olympic meet named as the chief factors responsible for our athletic downfall.

In the former respect the athletes have gone on record absolving the army officials connected with the trips from blame.

Track and Field

And in respect to the track and field conditions at the Antwerp Stadium and the officials at the games the athletes interviewed declared such could not reasonably be held responsible for the poor showing of the team.

It is true that insufficient attention was given to details in the construction of the Antwerp arena. Because of the fact the hammer throw circle was laid on turf instead of solid ground the bulky Matt McGrath on his first throw from this circle wrenched his knee so painfully that he was rendered unfit for further competition. Conditions in the high jump were equally bad for the athletes.

In the latter event no solid dirt take-off was provided and the jumpers were forced to choose between jumping from loose dirt or from grass. They elected the latter, but weighty men like Johnny Murphy, our national champion; Walter Whalen of the B. A. A., Muller of the coast and Baker of England, all of whom took off on the right, soon tore up the turf and were forced to jump from holes an inch or two below the original surface. Landon, the Yale star who won the event, and the Swedish jumper who finished second, each were fifty pounds lighter than the other competitors, and both took off on the left without cutting up the sod and thereby gained a decided advantage. Landon, by the way, is deserving of tremendous credit for setting a new Olympic mark under such conditions.

Starter Praised

But the athletes point out that such matters of track and field construction are said to handicap the athletes of other nations as well as our own, and they further state that it should have been the duty of members of our Olympic committee on their preliminary trips to Antwerp to see to it that such conditions were corrected.

The Belgian who served as starter for the running events won unstinted praise from the majority of American competitors.

And only once did the judges of the finishes appear to err, which record, in view of the tight competition featuring every running event, is a truly remarkable one.

The one flaw found in their work came in the final of the 100-metre dash. Their original decisions gave Paddock first place; Kirksey second; Edward of England, third; Ali-Khan of France, fourth; Scholz fifth, and Murchison, sixth. A few minutes later, after a conference, they placed Scholz fourth and Ali-Khan fifth. The opinions of the Americans at the finish, which opinion was borne out by photographs, was that Scholz finished third, Edward fourth, and Ali-Khan fifth.

Not Out to Trim

For a time during the progress of the meet some of the Americans were disposed to the belief that the officials were out "to trim the Americans." If such were the case, however—and few believe it to be—these officials were given cause to be watchful by none other than McEachern, the hammer thrower, that the committee put forward in place of Dandrow, the Tech athlete.

As has been previously stated, McEachern was quickly eliminated in the trial round of the hammer event. In addition to Pat Ryan, who ultimately won this number, Matt McGrath also qualified for the final on the throw in which he injured his knee.

On the day of the final round, McGrath was unable to compete because of his injury. On the same day the printer in charge of the Olympic program made the error of placing McGrath's number and McEachern's name in the list of hammer throw finalists. McEachern, noting this error, is said to have gone to the dressing room and fashioned a number similar to McGrath's to his jersey, and forthwith to have reported to the hammer throw circle, saying his name was McGrath, evidently hoping thereby to gain another opportunity to take part in the event from which he had been eliminated.

Ordered From Field

Now Matt McGrath happens to be one of the oldest athletes in the game, as familiar almost to European track officials as he is to Americans. Such being the case, McEachern's alleged scheme quickly was seen through and the latter ordered from the field, not, however, without casting a reflection on American sportsmanship.

At the time of this occurrence, as well as on other occasions over which criticism arose, two members of the American Olympic Committee—Bob Weaver, who is a candidate for the A. A. U. presidency and Frederick Rubien, secretary of the A. A. U. and of the Olympic committee—were on the field and in positions to handle such incidents, to the best interest or at least without reflection upon the American team.

That the committee representatives "fell down" on several occasions is the contention of not a few of the athletes.

Our shot putters complained that because none of their number understood the French language and because no provision was made for such emergencies, they were kept for over an hour out in cold, raw weather when the shot put event was postponed, and while the weight men of other nations were comfortably seated in a warm dressing room with masseurs working over their arms and shoulders preparatory to the postponed competition.

Other Incidents

Our discus throwers claim that, possibly through an error, but one that could be corrected had the committee's field representatives been on the job, one of the Finns secured second place in that event on a throw made by another of his countrymen.

In the 3,000-metre team race trials there came another incident in which not only the athletes but Coach Moakley criticised the work of those of the committee delegated to field work.

It so happened that in one trial heat only the French and American teams reported to the mark, and as two teams qualified in each heat, the American team and its lone rival had but to run through the distance in order to start in the final. It further developed that by unnecessary delay three of the five men on each team to compete in this trial. The French team promptly excused Guillemot, its best man and one other from the competition.

The first knowledge Coach Moakley gained of the fact that only three men were required to run came after his full team had travelled three laps. At that time, when it was too late to conserve the athletes, Committeeman Rubien came over to the coach, informing him of the matter.

"This is a fine time to learn that," commented the coach and turned away in apparent disgust.

Committeeman Weaver is held by many as failing his team as regards the shot put and discus incidents, one or two humorously adding that Weaver's chief concern seemed to be that of placing himself in front of all the cameras on the field.
